SMUGGLERS CAUGHT BY U. S. CAVALRYMEN

Residents Near Border Fear Mexicans Will Attempt to Rescue Prisoners.

WIRE WASHINGTON FOR AID

Two Killed, Three Injured, and Fourteen Captured in Battle Near Alinto Crossing on the Rio Grande.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 13.—Mexican smugglers, captured after a battle with United States cavalrymen this morning near Alinto Crossing on the Rio Grande, were led by Barney Cline, an American, an automobile driver of El Paso, as he described himself, to military authorities.

Cline and the other prisoners are being taken to Carrizo Springs, near where Deputy Sheriff Ortiz was killed Thursday in the first engagement with the band.

Residents of Carrizo Springs, 40 miles from the border, fearing an attempt at rescue by the Mexicans from across the Rio Grande today telegraphed Congressman Garner at Washington, asking that he endeavor to have troops sent there as guard until the prisoners are tried.

Further details of the battle this morning placed the number of dead at two with three seriously wounded and 14 captured.

Refugees Reach New Orleans.

New Orleans, Sept. 13.—Twenty-one Americans, refugees from Mexico, arrived here late today on the steamer Tamaulipas from Tampico. All said they had accepted money from the Huerta government to help pay for first-class passage.

Almost all of the refugees were from the southern part of the republic, and the stories of the revolution were far different from those told by others who have arrived here. They said conditions are not as bad in the southern States as had been depicted, and that while adherents of Zapata had raided ranches and taken some property, Americans in that section had not suffered indignities such as reported from other parts of the republic. Agents of the State Department tonight started the refugees to their homes, widely scattered over the United States.

Rebel Activity Increases.

Vera Cruz, Sept. 13.—Rebel activity between San Luis Polosi and Tampico has increased and dispatches from Tampico say traffic again is interrupted. There is considerable apprehension regarding the safety of the few American women who yet remain in the district. A band of rebels visited Bialock ranch, a short distance west of Tampico, recently. This is an American property, but all the American women who were living there had gone to a place of safety.

The authorities at Tampico are investigating a report that the Panuco river, a navigable stream whose mouth is Tampico harbor, has been mined.

The United States gunboat Wheeling has sailed from Vera Cruz and is due to arrive at Tampico tomorrow. The United States battleship South Carolina, which is under orders from Washington to leave Mexican waters, may remain here until after Independence Day, September 16th.

Washington, Sept. 13.—General Venustiano Carranza, head of the Constitutionalists of Mexico, was expected tonight to reach Hermosillo, capital of the State of Sonora, according to advices received at the Constitutionalist headquarters here. It was stated that he was within rail communication of Hermosillo where he will confer with rebel State authorities.

MRS. GODBEE SENTENCED.

Georgia Woman Convicted of Murder Gets Life Prison Term.

Millen, Ga., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee today was found guilty of the murder of Mrs. Florence Godbee, wife of her divorced husband, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Attorneys for the defense announced that they would make application for a new trial.

Mrs. Florence Godbee and her husband, Judge W. S. Godbee, were shot to death by the convicted woman on August 18th. The tragedy occurred in the lobby of the Millen postoffice. Mrs. Godbee was arrested immediately and later indicted for both murders. She was placed on trial Thursday for killing Mrs. Godbee. Few witnesses were examined, their testimony dealing chiefly with the details of the shooting. Mrs. Godbee in a statement in her own behalf, told of alleged mistreatment at the hands of her former husband.

TO REPORT ON INVESTIGATION.

Results of Lobby Probe to be Published Two Weeks Hence.

Washington, Cept. 13.—The first results of Congressional investigation of the lobby, which President Wilson declared was "numerous and insidious", will become apparent when the House investigating committee makes its report in about two weeks. Its work probably will be finished within that time.

Prominent in the House committee's report will be the testimony taken on Martin M. Mulhall's charges against Representative McClermott, of Illinois. It is believed the committee will present only the facts it has developed, and let the House judge their value.

President Wilson's friends in Congress declare the Senate committee's report on its investigation of the lobby in general will support the President's charge, that influences were working in Washington to defeat legislation.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR MAYOR'S FUNERAL

Burial of William J. Gaynor on September 22nd Will be Without Ostentation—Simplicity Will Mark the Obsequies.

New York, Sept. 13.—The funeral of William J. Gaynor on Monday, September 22nd, will be without military display. Mrs. Gaynor today said at a conference at the Gaynor home in Brooklyn that the Mayor would have wished it so.

With Mayor Kline and other city officials she approved the plans for the obsequies as arranged. Ostentation was not to the Mayor's liking. He was a lover of simplicity, and during the public tribute to the dead executive of the city that will be begun upon the arrival of his body here the only escort of his coffin will be mounted police.

Carrying out the idea of simplicity at the funeral it has been decided that the offers of many orchestras to render the music at Old Trinity shall be declined and that the musical part of the service be carried out only by the Trinity choir and organ. Mrs. Gaynor has chosen only one number, the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," of which the Mayor was very fond.

Private services will be conducted Friday evening at the Gaynor home by the Rev. Dr. Frank Page, of Culpepper, Va., formerly pastor of St. John's Episcopal church, in Brooklyn, near the late Mayor's residence. Mayor Gaynor's will was filed with the surrogate in Brooklyn this afternoon. As it was after closing hours the document was locked up in the safe without being examined to remain there until Monday.

Liverpool, Sept. 13.—The body of the late Mayor of New York, William Jay Gaynor, is aboard the steamer Lusitania at sea, after receiving honors here seldom paid o any except England's most illustrious dead.

The Lusitania this evening sailed for New York, and is due there next Friday. In deference to the feelings of the passengers on the Lusitania, which was crowded, the body was removed aboard early this morning after a brief funeral service at the Liverpool town hall.

All night the body of the late Mayor lay in state guarded by details of police. Cunard officials received the coffin aboard the Lusitania. Representatives of the Lord-Mayor and several city councilmen were in attendance.

Acting under instructions of the Lord-Mayor the port authorities extended every possible courtesy.

The body was removed without the usual examination and was placed in a mortuary chapel aboard ship. Rufus Gaynor, the Mayor's son, accompanied by American Consul Horace Lee Washington, boarded the Lusitania at 5 o'clock and was received by Captain Charles and City Councilman Maxwell, to whom he expressed his deep gratitude for the high honors which Liverpool had paid his father's memory.

On the tender the oak coffin, enclosed in a plain deal box covered with the American flag, was almost buried in flowers. In the chapel the official American ensign of the Lusitania was draped over the coffin.

When the ship reaches New York harbor the American flag will be hoisted at half mast at the forepeak, while the crew stands at attention. Eight uniformed quartermasters will carry the body ashore, where it will be received by the civic authorities.

Officials, clergy and citizens joined in paying respect to the dead executive of New York city. As the Lusitania swung down the stream the flags on all ships were dipped to half mast and other liners saluted with hoarse blasts of their sirens.

MURDER MYSTERY DEEPENS.

Mutilated Body of Girl Found in River Still Unidentified.

New York, Sept. 13.—Once again the mystery of the murdered girl, parts of whose body were found in the Hudson river more than a week ago, is a puzzle, all clues having failed to reveal her identity or the manner of her death.

The body is not that of Annette Day, the Brooklyn girl, who has been missing since August 8th, as had been believed. Salvatore Day and his sister, Mary Day, today went to the Hoboken morgue late today and carefully viewed the upper and lower portions of the dismembered body. They stated positively that the fragments were not those of Annette's body, the marks were not identified, they said. Later Francis Day admitted that the body was not that of his sister. The police of New York now have no tangible clue in the case. They have no idea as to the identity of the murdered girl or her murderer.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 13.—Dr. Z. H. Stamets, a local physician today asked the Fort Wayne police to notify New York authorities that he believed the dismembered body of a woman found in the Hudson river was that of his wife. He declared the birthmark on the shoulder of the body tallied exactly with one on his wife's back.

Dr. and Mrs. Stamets were separated a year ago, and Mrs. Stamets went to New York, where she planned to resume work as a nurse. Dr. Stamets will depart for New York tomorrow.

"BIG TIM" SULLIVAN DEAD.

His Mangled Body Identified by His Step-Brother.

New York, Sept. 13.—"Big Tim" Sullivan, the New York politician who rose from newsboy to Congressman, is dead. His mangled body was identified today by his step-brother, Larry Mulligan, after it had lain for 13 days in a local morgue.

Sullivan, who was ill, eluded his nurses in the early morning of August 31st, and a few hours after was struck and killed by a train at Pelham Parkway.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Brigadier General Edwin M. Coates, U. S. A., retired, died at his home here early today after an illness of almost a year. He was 77 years old and a native of New York.

MEXICAN PROBLEM ABSORBS INTEREST

Washington Anticipates Important Developments at Early Date.

AID FOR AMERICAN REFUGEES

Administration Officials Busy With Plans for the Withdrawal of American Citizens from the Danger Zones.

Washington, Sept. 13.—In anticipation of important developments in connection with the Mexican problem next week, State Department officials have been giving much attention to the execution of plans for the withdrawal in safety of those Americans in Mexico who can be induced to leave that country.

The immediate result of the State Department's warning was to gather a number of such refugees in the seaports, but most of them now have been brought to the United States and American consuls in Mexico report a notable diminution in the number of Americans now homeward bound. It is believed those now in the country have decided to remain, and take the chances of protection at the hands of the Huerta government. It has not been possible to obtain an estimate of their number, but it is known that at least a majority of the Americans already have left the country.

American consular officers in Mexico have been keeping lists of all American property which the owners have withdrawn, in order to establish a basis for the settlement of claims which may arise after the revolutionary movement has ended. In each case the proper Mexican local official has been notified of the withdrawal in order that he might take steps to prevent robbery or looting of the property.

The President's Attitude.

The President has expressly stated that his suggestion for the withdrawal of those Americans is not to be regarded as a sign of his purpose to intervene in Mexico, and that it was based solely upon the belief set out in his last message to Congress, dealing with the subject of Mexico, that as the situation in that country becomes more acute the danger of Americans will increase in proportion.

Next week is expected to make the development of just such an acute stage as the President is supposed to have had in mind. The Mexican Congress will assemble Tuesday to receive a special message from Provisional President Huerta dealing with the rebellion and particularly with the influence upon that movement of the attitude of the United States government. It is realized in official circles here that much importance will be attached to the tone of that communication.

Preparing for Demonstration.

Coincident with the message from Huerta to the Mexican Congress will be the patriotic demonstration for the same day. Under orders from the government army officers have been gathering up all the able-bodied citizens not already in the military service, and arming and drilling them under the claim that they were being prepared to participate in this demonstration of approval of the existing government.

With the military ardor of these thousands of undisciplined spirits kindled, anti-American demonstrations might follow, but Huerta has given strict instructions that every effort be made to supress any such bulletins.

GENERAL DEBATE ENDS.

Praise and Censure for the Administration Currency Bill.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The House tonight wound up four days of general debate on the Administration Currency bill. Republicans and Progressives criticised the measure on various points, and Democrats lauded it as the means of evolving a safe, solid financial system.

Altogether some three score members talked on the bill. The Republicans devoted themselves to attacking four principal points regarding the measure. First, they condemned the secret committee meetings and the secret Democratic caucus, which handled the bill. Progressives also found this an inspiring theme.

Second, the scheme of making the banks of the country subscribe capital and deposits for the conduct of the proposed Federal reserve banks was condemned.

Third, the broad powers given the Federal Reserve Board were deplored and it was charged that the board would become a political asset.

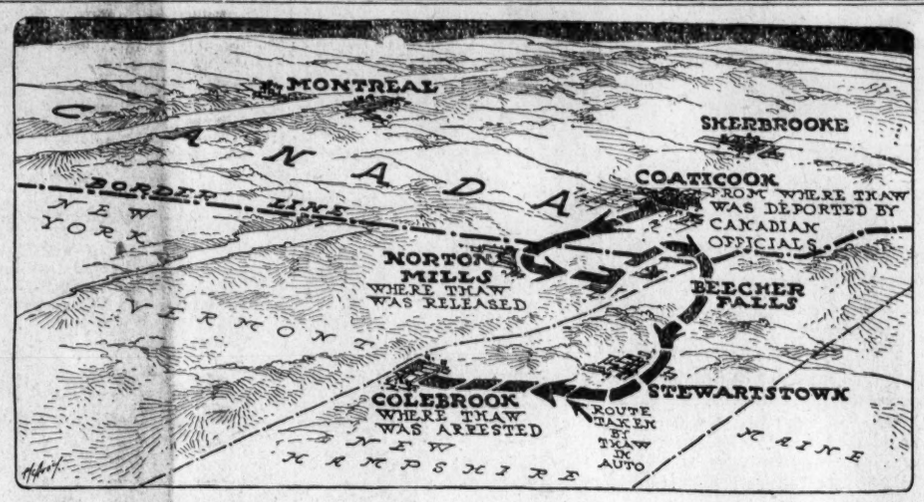
Fourth, the fact that the proposed new currency is to be in the nature of a government obligation, although issued by the banks, was accepted as making possible a demand on the gold reserve in the treasury, such as characterized the Cleveland administration.

Several Democrats joined the minority in their attacks on the method under which the bill was framed, but all announced they would accept the judgment of the party and vote for the bill.

The measure will be taken up in detail for amendment Monday, and it is expected the detailed discussion will be extensive. But under the caucus action of the Democrats, the possibility of any change being written into the measure in the House is remote. Chairman Glass, of the Banking and Currency committee, who opened the debate, made the closing speech tonight.

Latonia, Ky., Sept. 13.—Nickels, the automobile driver, and his mechanician, Shuttler, were probably fatally injured when their machine went through the fence at the first turn of the track during a 100-mile automobile race here today.

Route Covered By Thaw on Way Back to the States.



Devious route traversed by Harry Thaw in an auto during his few exciting hours of freedom on Wednesday. As indicated by the heavy line, he was taken from Coaticook, Quebec, to Norton Mills, Vt., where he was released. He then doubled back into Canada, turning the corner of the Vermont line into New Hampshire, drove through Beecher Falls and Stewartstown to Colebrook, where he was arrested.

TARIFF WORK PROGRESSING

Chairman Simmons Predicts Report of Tariff Conferees Will be Made to Both Houses of Congress Next Week.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The tariff conferees got along so well today that Chairman Simmons, of the Senate Finance committee, predicted tonight their report will be made to the House of Congress next week.

The conferences today finished the cotton schedule, and the flax and hemp schedule. In the cotton schedule the Senate changes were largely agreed to. The classification of stockings was changed and a slightly higher rate placed upon them.

Flax and hemp were left on the free list. The paragraphs relating to bagging and burlap, which caused much debate in the Senate were not acted upon. House leaders insist the Senates on these articles would mean a decrease in revenue of several million dollars annually.

The difficulty over free-listing for mangnese and pig iron in the steel schedule, the only serious disagreement that so far has developed, was not taken up today, but it was believed a settlement would be reached upon it Monday.

Fight Banana Tax.

General Chamorro, Nicaraguan minister, and other Central American diplomats, held a further conference today with Secretary Bryan and, it is understood, renewed their protest against the proposed tariff on bananas, included in the tariff bill. The Central American delegation was unanimous in declaring that the imposition of the tariff would curtail their banana trade and interrupt the reciprocal trade relations with the United States now being carried on over established routes.

WASHINGTON ALMOST DESERTED

Exodus of High Officials Yesterday from Capital.

Washington, Sept. 13.—An exodus of high government officials marks the close of the present week in Washington.

With President Wilson enjoying a brief respite from official cares in Cornish, N. H., Secretary Daniels left today for Atlantic City to join Mrs. Daniels and their two sons; Secretary Wilson leaves tomorrow for the West and South on a speaking tour. On Monday Vice President and Mrs. Marshall go to visit friends in Philadelphia stopping at Atlantic City before returning. Secretary McAdoo is spending the week-end in New York. Secretary Houston also is absent on business. Secretary Redfield returned today and will resume control of the Department of Commerce Monday.

CRACK POSTOFFICE SAFE.

Thieves Escape from Virginia Town Without Leaving Clue.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 13.—The safe of the postoffice at Concord, 15 miles east of here, was dynamited last night, the robbers getting away without leaving a clue. The amount of money and postage stamps stolen is not known here.

Charleston, S. C., Sept. 13.—The crippled torpedo boat Craven, damaged off Tybee Island Wednesday by a boiler explosion, resulted in the death of two men and the injuring of others, arrived here today in tow of the Uncas.

OUTLINES

Chairman Simmons predicted that the tariff conferees would submit their report to both Houses of Congress next week.

Thaw's attorneys have secured a writ of habeas corpus from a Federal judge in order to meet any emergency should the Governor refuse a full hearing on the matter of extraditing the fugitive from New Hampshire.

In a battle with United States cavalrymen near Alinto Crossing on the Rio Grande, two Mexican smugglers were killed, three injured, and fourteen taken prisoners.

The body of "Big Tim" Sullivan, which had lain unidentified for 13 days in a morgue, was identified by his former stenographer. Sullivan was prominent in New York politics, having risen from a newsboy to a millionaire Congressman.

FEDERAL JUDGE GRANTS THAW HABEAS CORPUS

Writ Secured by Fugitive's Counsel, to Meet Emergency, Should Governor Refuse Full Hearing on Extradition—Jerome Characterizes Move as "Trifling With Federal Court."

Colebrook, N. H., Sept. 13.—The perpetually recurring writ of habeas corpus, which has so often dotted the career of Harry K. Thaw since his incarceration in Matteawan, as the insane slayer of Stanford White, cropped up again today in his fight to resist extradition from New Hampshire. This time, and for the first time in the history of Thaw's efforts to regain his liberty, the writ was issued by a Federal court.

United States Judge Aldrich, of the district of New Hampshire, granted the application of three of the Thaw lawyers, Martin, Shurtleff and Olmstead, and made it returnable at Littleton on Tuesday next.

Jerome Charges "Bad Faith."

William Travers Jerome, specially deputized to take the fugitive back to the asylum, characterized the move as one of bad faith. "There had been a gentleman's agreement," he said, "that neither side was to make a court move pending the extradition hearing before Governor Felker in Concord next week.

The Thaw leaders, led by Moses H. Grossman, said the writ was one of expediency, and had been obtained to meet an emergency should the Governor refuse a full hearing on the extradition matter and sign the requisition warrant, forthwith turning Thaw over to officers of the State of New York. They had reason to believe now, they added, that a full hearing would be accorded the fugitive, and that they probably would request on Tuesday that the habeas corpus hearing be continued.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Jerome grimly, "that this is trifling with the Federal court. I should hesitate to apply for a writ in such circumstances."

Thaw Spends Quiet Day.

Thaw spent a very quiet day. There was no court hearing here. He will likely remain here until the Governor sets a date for a hearing.

Tonight the fugitive gave out a telegram which his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, sent from Montreal to Governor Felker. He added that she would not come here at present in view of the uncertain status of affairs.

Thaw's Mother Wires Governor.

This is her telegram:

"To His Excellency, Governor Felker.

"I address your excellency in the interests of my son, H. K. Thaw, who, after being deprived of the liberty the average acquitted man would immediately have received after a verdict of 'not guilty,' upon the ground of the defendant's insanity at the time of the commission of the act charged under the indictment, has for five and a half years endured untold hardships and indignities in one of New York's worst penal institutions. Finally he took the only recourse left, a right for the freedom denied through malice.

"May I beg that your excellency will secure to him, in whatever way proper, a fair and impartial hearing during the impending proceedings.

"Yours very sincerely,

"MARY C. THAW."

Canadians Leave Colebrook.

Most of the Canadians who followed Thaw across the border had left Colebrook tonight and the talk of kidnapping, so rampant for a few days, died down considerably. Thaw's lawyers still contended that they feared "strong arm" work on the part of the authorities from New York and the guard about the fugitive's rooms tonight was maintained though somewhat diminished.

Mr. Grossman, of the Thaw counsel, tonight issued a statement outlining in a general way what will be the gist of his arguments before the Governor. "No man in the world," he said, "occupies a more anomalous position today than does Harry K. Thaw.

"They are endeavoring to extradite under cover of a charge of crime a man who they themselves must admit cannot commit a crime, for the purpose of recommitting him in a lunatic asylum, where, if he be sane, he certainly should not be kept, and which, even though he be insane, has no legal right to keep him.

"Papers have arrived from New York State charging Thaw with the crime of conspiring to escape from an insane asylum and at the same time alleging he was properly confined in that asylum. If he were properly in the asylum, he must have been insane and every layman knows that an insane person cannot be guilty of conspiracy or any other crime.

"On its face, it is apparent to every thinking man that this whole conspiracy charge and all these extradition proceedings are merely a subterfuge in the attempt to mew Thaw up for life in a lunatic asylum."

Sheriff Hornbeck, of Dutchess county, N. Y., in which Matteawan is situated, arrived here tonight with the requisition warrant signed by Acting Governor Glynn. Mr. Jerome inspected the papers and will lay them before the Governor early next week.

A petition to Governor Felker, praying that he refuse extradition in the Thaw case on the ground that Thaw had suffered enough for his crime, was circulated in Colebrook today. Up to tonight it was said 105 signatures had been obtained.

Scope of Hearing.

Littleton, N. H., Sept. 13.—The probable scope of the hearing of Judge Aldrich on the writ of habeas corpus calling for the production of Thaw in the United States district court at Littleton next Tuesday could not be learned from the judge at his home here tonight. "Great questions are involved," said the judge, "and it would be quite improper for me to discuss the matter in any way. I shall have to hear the parties and see what they want."

Governor Felker's Position.

Rochester, N. H., Sept. 13.—Governor Samuel D. Felker tonight said he did not know what effect, if any, the granting of an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the United States District Court today would have on the extradition proceedings in the Thaw case.

"As a matter of fact," said the Governor, "I have made no plans. Any hearing that I may hold in the affair will take place later than Tuesday. It will be Wednesday at the earliest."

"Officially," said the Governor, "I don't know that Mr. Thaw is in our State, except for requests of counsel that he be given a hearing."

He added that he had not yet been served with the requisition warrant which Sheriff Hornbeck, of Dutchess county, brought from New York.

EDITORS TESTIFY.

Tell Investigators of Suppression of Newspaper in West Virginia.

Washington, Sept. 13.—W. H. Thompson, of Huntington, W. Va., and C. H. Boswell, of Charleston, editors of Socialist newspapers, today told the Senate committee investigating the West Virginia mine strike about the suppression of their publication by the State. Both newspapers supported the strike. The two men declared that they had been jailed without knowing the charges against them.

During the cross-examination, Attorney Vincent, for the coal operators, declared the strike was due to the Socialist party and added that the United Mine Workers had made a part of the party.

THREE WOMEN DROWNED.

In Flood Following Cloudburst in Southern Nevada.

Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 13.—The streets of Goldfield were flooded by a cloudburst today followed by hail and the heaviest electrical storm in the history of Southern Nevada. Three women were drowned, a number of houses were carried away and the power plant was put out of commission and the town flooded.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 13.—Raymond E. Smith, secretary and treasurer of the Roseville Trust Company, who disappeared August 13th, the day before the institution was closed by State bank examiners, leaving behind an alleged shortage of more than $200,000 surrendered at Rahway.

"TIM" SULLIVAN'S BODY IDENTIFIED

Had Lain Unclaimed for Thirteen Days in a Morgue.

WAS KILLED BY LOCOMOTIVE

Was Porminent in New York Politics, Having Risen from Newsboy to Millionaire Congressman. Mind Clouded.

His mangled body was identified today by his stenographer, Larry Mulligan, after it had lain for 13 days in a local morgue.

Sullivan, who was ill, eluded his nurses in the early morning of August 31st and a few hours later was struck and killed by a train at Phelam Parkway.

With no identifying marks on the clothing or articles in the pockets the body lay in Fordham morgue for 13 days awaiting identification. This morning it was sent to Bellevue morgue. There was stationed Peter Purfield, a politician who had known "Big Tim" Sullivan and liked him before his mind became clouded. Something about the expression of the features stirred Purfield's memory. By and by, after he had pondered an hour or so Purfield remarked to a reporter: "That looks a little like 'Big Tim'."

Peering long at the mutilated and discolored face the reporter thought so too. The telephone brought "Big Tim's" East Side friends in groups to the morgue, but none recognized in the changed features the man they had known in his prime. Larry Mulligan, Sullivan's step-brother, was summoned. He looked at the face once and turned away.

"It's 'Big Tim'," he said.

"Big Tim" met his death two hours or less after he had wandered out into the night from the home of his brother, Patrick, at Williamsbridge. The neighborhood is sparsely settled there and Sullivan had but a dollar in his pocket. He struck out across the fields, apparently with the thought in mind that he would take a train for New York and re-visit his former cronies on the East Side.

Pelham Park way station lay not far away. It is possible that Sullivan saw its lights and made it his immediate destination. In any event his body was found at 4 o'clock in the morning near the tracks by a policeman. It was taken to the Fordham morgue.

For many months "Big Tim's" mind had been under a cloud. Elected to Congress last Fall he had never taken his seat because of this trouble. A commission was appointed to administer the affairs of his large estate and to look after his person. Last May "Big Tim" was taken to Europe in the hope that the ocean voyage and a trip on the continent would restore him to health.

When he came back, however, his friends saw little improvement in his condition. He was taken to the Williamsbridge home of his brother and three male nurses were employed to guard him. Once he eluded them and went back to the East Side. He remained there but a few hours until his nurses were notified he was again under surveillance.

On the night he last disappeared Sullivan sat up till 2 o'clock playing pinochle. Two of the nurses went to bed at midnight, leaving the third to continue the game. The third nurse became drowsy. "Big Tim" did not. When the nurse finally slumbered "Big Tim" crept noiselessly out of the house and went to his death.

Political Career.

Washington, Sept. 13.—"Big Tim" Sullivan was elected to the Congress now in session, but he never took his seat, because of his illness, and as far as records of the Capitol show, he had not been in Washington since it began work.

Sullivan drew his pay, however "by commission," the House agreeing to pay his salary to those appointed by the New York courts to look after his affairs. He had been a representative in the 58th and 59th Congresses, and was then very active.

His death will necessitate a special election in the 13th New York district which comprises New York county. That will be the fifth special election caused by death since the 63rd Congress began work in March.

VETERANS' ENCAMPMENT.

Members of G. A. R. Arriving at Chattanooga for Big Event.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 13.—Hundreds of Union veterans of the War Between the States arrived in Chattanooga today for the 47th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which opens Monday. Preparations are practically complete for the entertainment of 100,000 visitors expected during the encampment.

Details of the encampment programme were taken up today at National headquarters established b yesterday upon the arrival of Commander-in-Chief Alfred F. Beers his staff.

The city is in gala attire, hundreds of United States ags decorating buildings, business and residential sections.

Washington, Sept. 13.—An investigation of the financial affairs of the United States District Court in the treaty port of Shanghai, China, will be begun on Monday by the House committee on expenditures in the Department of Justice.

GIANTS—PIRATES SPLIT "MATTY" WINNING HIS GAME

Fromme and Crandall Were Not Effective in the Second Game.

PHILS WON FROM CARDS

Reds and Braves Split Double Bill and Manager Tinker Gets in a Fight—Cubs Defeated Trolley Dodgers.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, most dreaded by McGraw of all major league clubs, not excepting the Athletics, split a double-header with the Giants yesterday afternoon, the Giants taking the first performance with Mathewson on the firing line, while the latter event, presided over by Aethur Fromme and Otis Crandall, went to the home team. The second game twirled for the Pirate crew by Hendrix, was a shutout for the Giants.

The Phillies won their closing game at St. Louis in a pitcher's battle between Alexander and Perritt, scoring two runs on bunched hits and an error, while the Cardinals were unable to hit Alexander when hits counted.

The Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Braves broke even on a double-header yesterday, and Manager Tinker and Maranville also fought a two-round bout to a draw, no decision being rendered after the umpires had separated the combatants.

Jim Vaughan pitched invincible ball for the Chicago Cubs, and won from the Brooklyn Dodgers, it being his fourth consecutive victory since joining the Cubs.

Giants Break Even.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13.—New York and Pittsburgh broke even in a double-header this afternoon. New York, with Mathewson pitching, won the first game 4 to 2 and Pittsburgh won the second 8 to 0. Hendrix registered a shutout, while Fromme and Crandall were hit hard.

"Ruff Stuff" at Cincy.

Cincinnati, Sept. 13.—Cincinnati and Boston broke even in a double-header today, the locals taking the first, an 11-inning game, 5 to 4, and the visitors annexing the second which went five inning 1 to 0. In the first game Manager Tinker and Maranville engaged in a difficulty, the result being the banishment from the game of Tinker, Maranville and Myers, a Boston infielder. After Maranville, in Boston's half of the initial inning had reached second he was caught trying for third, Tinker handling the ball. Just what caused both players to become angry could not be ascertained, but a fight started immediately. Myers attempted to interfere in behalf of Maranville and Tinker threw the ball at him, but missed him. The umpires, after several players had taken a hand, came between the men and quiet was restored. The first game went 11 innings and was the longest played on the local lot this season.

The second contest was called after five innings on account of darkness.

EXPERIMENT IN PHOTOGRAPHY.

Army Board Makes Appropriation to be Used in the Test.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The army board of ordnance and fortifications has allotted $500 to enable the chief signal officer of the army, Brig. Gen. Scriven, to experiment in war photography. The object is to develop a suitable method of photography in the field, so that results may be enlarged and projected on a screen for the benefit of the commanding general.

McGraw a Wonder —Larry McLean

"I learned more baseball in one night's talk with McGraw, and one game for him," says Larry McLean, "than I had picked up in all my previous seasons. He's a wonder. Second game I caught for John, I was on first, and I thought he gave me the sign to steal. Imagine me stealing a base! I decided I must be mistaken, and stuck on first till the inning ended. Then said McGraw: 'Larry, when I tell you to steal, you steal.' 'But,' said I, 'I can't run, and look how ridiculous I seem, with the crowd all laughing at me!' 'That's all right,' said McGraw. 'I'm the one that takes the responsibility. If they laugh, just consider that they are laughing at me, and not at you.' Well, I will obey his orders—but it will be hard to make me believe, when I hear the mob hooting, that it's him they are laughing at, and not yours truly!"—Baseball Magazine.

COBB VS. JACKSON

Tris Speaker, besides winning a game for the world champions yesterday afternoon, crawled up to within one point of the mighty Carolina clouter, Joe Jackson. Speaker had a perfect batting average yesterday, getting four safeties out of as many trips to the plate. Jackson lost two points on a two and nothing record, while Cobb out of three attempts connected safely once.

FLASHED WORTHLESS CHECK.

Luther Carmichael Makes Phony Horse Trade at Lumberton.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Sept. 13.—Chief Redfern received a telegram today from the sheriff of Wake county requesting the arrest of Luther Carmichael, a young white man driving a horse and buggy. Investigation revealed the fact that the young white man had been here early this morning trading horses and giving a $40 check to cover difference in value of animals.

Upon the receipt of the request for the arrest, an officer followed the young man six miles where he had stopped for dinner. When he saw that the officer was after him he made a dash and succeeded in escaping. The officer recovered the horse and buggy. The check proved to be worthless.

SHOOTING TOURNAMENT.

Members National Guard of New Jersey Win Cavalry Team Match.

Seagirt, N. J., Sept. 13.—In the International and Inter-State shooting tournament here the regimental field and staff team of the Third Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey of Camden, won the cavalry team match today with a score of 453 out of a possible 500.

The second troop, Philadelphia city cavalry, was second with 452, and the field and staff team of the Second Regiment, New Jersey National Guard for third place with 449.

The first regiment, District of Columbia, won the Cruikshank trophy match with a total of 56 out of a possible 630 on the 200, 500 and 600 yard ranges.

The second regiment, District of Columbia, finished second and the Third New Jersey, third.

VIRGINIA SEASON CLOSED.

Petersburg Clinched the Pennant Two Weeks Before the Close.

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 13.—The Virginia League season closed today. Roanoke at Petersburg; Newport News at Richmond, and Portsmouth at Norfolk, played double-headers and all split honors. Petersburg has had the pennant cinched nearly two weeks. Roanoke was second in the race, and Richmond third. Portsmouth leads the second division in the standing with Newport News next and Norfolk in the cellar.

The following is the standing:

	W	L	Pct.
Petersburg	89	46	.659
Roanoke	82	57	.590
Richmond	74	60	.552
Portsmouth	57	77	.426

RIOT FOLLOWS LECTURE.

Troops Called to Quell Disturbance Caused by Former Priest.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 13.—Troops were withdrawn from duty at New Lexington, Ohio, today, order having been restored, following a riot precipitated here yesterday by a lecture by Jeremiah Crowley, who claimed to be a former Catholic priest.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—Nathaniel Wheeler, of Yale, captured the intercollegiate individual golf championship at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club today by defeating John Marshall, Jr., of Williams College, 3 up and 2 to play.

DODGERS HIT KING.

Jake Daubert, who is only overshadowed by two men as leading batter in the National League, is the real batting leader, those above him having been in very few games during the season, while Big Jake has been right on the job in nearly every game the Trolley Dodgers have played. Gabby Cravath, of the Phillies, has tied him this week, but will doubtless give him a lead before another week.

THE HURLING HONORS.

Jim Vaughan, former American Leaguer, now with the Chicago Nationals, and Luhrsen, of Pittsburgh, lead the National League pitchers, according to the latest compilation of figures, while Walter Johnson is on top in the American League.

Vaughan and Luhrsen both have a perfect percentage, each having won the three games he pitched. Demaree, of the Giants, and Humphries, of the Chicago Cubs, are tied for second place, with 14 victories and three defeats each, their percentage being .824.

Johnson is far in the lead in the American League, the Washington pitcher having won 31 games and lost seven, for a percentage of .816. Houck, of the Athletics, is the runner-up, having won 11 and lost four, for a percentage of .733.

Fred Clarke tried to have some fun with Hub Perdue, the big Boston pitcher, a few days ago. "I only wish," said Fred, "that you'd do all the pitching when we play Boston." Perdue snorted. "Why," said he, "you yourself never got but one hit off me in your life, and your brother, Josh, made that one for you. I had you in the ninth, two strikes, no balls called. Your brother, Josh, who was playing leftfield for Boston, ran in, and said to me: 'Give Fred a nice curve, waist high—he never hits that kind!' And you hit it for three bases. Right there was where I learned that blood was thicker than water. After that I decided I'd pitch my own games and never let anybody's brother pitch them for me!"

NAPS BREAK THE HOODOO TAKING FIRST FROM MACKS

Bunched Hits Off Chief Bender Gave Games to Birmingham.

SENATORS LOST TO CHICAGO

New York Yankees Won Fifth Game of the Week—Tris Speaker Won From Browns for the World Champions.

The Cleveland Naps succeeded in breaking a six-day old hoodoo yesterday afternoon in their first clash with the Philadelphia Athletics, and came off with the big end of the score of 3 to 1. Bunched hits off Big Chief Bender in the fourth inning, netting them three tallies, won the game, after which Plank replaced the chief. A ninth-inning rally was nipped by a great running stop by Chapman.

The Washington Senators, after taking a straight series from the Cleveland Naps, fell down in the initial game with the Chicago White Sox, the final score showing 6 to 4. Joe Boehling was in poor form, and was replaced by Gallia in the third inning. Gallia was followed by Hughes in the sixth, and "Doc" Ayres, late of Richmond, Va., finished the game.

The New York Yankees won their fifth game for the week yesterday, defeating the Detroit Tigers by a 4 to 3 score, this being the fourth game of the season that the Yanks have won on the 13th of the month.

Tris Speaker was the chief alibi furnished by the St. Louis Browns to explain yesterday's victory of the Boston Red Sox, score 3 to 2. The heavy batsman drove in the winning run in the fifth inning with his two-station clout, and his all around good playing featured the game.

Naps Break Hoodoo.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—Cleveland got off its losing streak today by defeating Philadelphia 3 to 1 by bunching hits in the fourth inning. A great running stop by Chapman, on which a double play was made, prevented a rally by Philadelphia in the ninth.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The Chicago White Sox took the first of a three-game series here today from Washington 6 to 4, putting a stop to the locals' winning streak. Boehling was not in good form and he retired with one out in the third in favor of Gallia. The latter was taken out in the sixth and before the game was over Ayers and Hughes were called to the mound for Washington. Cicotte pitched a strong game until the sixth, then he weakened.

Cubs And Phils Double Crossed

Most National Leaguers think that the Cubs and Phils slipped each other the death blow this season, knocking each other right out of all chances for the flag. The "break," so far as these two teams are concerned, came, in case, as the direct result of a double-header. When the Cubs went East on their second trip, they were full of confidence. Though a long stretch separated them from the lead, they had every hope of coming through, and fully expected to cut down the margin to a size that could be easily handled a little later on. A hot double-header at Philadelphia woke them up, spoiled the dream, ruined the golden prospects. They were knocked down and out, and that fatal afternoon saw "the break" and the finish to all their aspirations.

When the Cubs took their last Eastern trip of the season, their hopes were null and nil, but Philadelphia had been fighting so hard to overtake the Giants that Dooin's men had all sorts of hopes and a decided lookin. But the double-header of August 16th, when the Cubs took both halves of the festivity, ended it all and put the bee upon the Quakers. The "break" came for them right there, just as they had slipped it to the Cubs a few weeks earlier, and with the last out of the day the last golden vision of the Phils took wing. R-r-revenge! Such is life in the major leagues!—Baseball Magazine.

ELON COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

Outlook Brightest in Several Years, Says Bob Doak, the Big Coach.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Elon College, N. C., Sept. 13.—The outlook for athletics this year at Elon is the brightest it has been in several years, declares "Bob" Doak, the big coach. Since Elon does not play football Fall practice for the baseball candidates has already begun. This gives manager Johnson excelent opportunity to find out what the new men can do, and he is more than jubilant over the prospect. There are four or five new men who have shown fine ability and with enough practice should make some of the old ones hustle for their places on the team.

The prospect for a good basketball team is the best Elon has ever had. Of last year's team there are Johnson and Newman, both of whom should give any pair of guards plenty to do to keep up with them. Newman by his steady work last year has been elected to lead this year's team. In no game last year did he fail to do his share, and with his two years' experience he should make one of the best forwards in the State. Johnson who will likely play the other forward, put up his best game last season against Carolina. In this game he threw six field goals over Capt. Chambers of Carolina, and to him perhaps belongs the credit for Elon's having won this game. Although every man who played in it did his full part.

At center this year will be Atkinson, who also put up a splendid game against Carolina and the others, and with last year's experience should make one of the best men on the team. This year Elon will have a very strong pair of guards in Bradford and Morette. Bradford did good work last year at both guard and center, and should make any forward go some to score much on him. Morrette is a big Dutchman from Pennsylvania, having player four years on his high school team. Two years his team won the championship for that State.

Besides these there will be last year's subs, Bruce and Beal, who are expected to arrive in a few days, as sub-forwards, and Holland and Pritchette, as sub-guards.

CHADBOURN VAGUELY ALARMED.

Something Was in the Air—Tense Expectancy—and Then—Whume!

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chadbourn, N. C., Sept. 13.—Last night about supper time when the stores were ready to close, clerks began to look at each other and sniff the air. Farther down the street a block pedestrians walked cautiously, looking for trouble. Two blocks on farther, a family of children were in fear of being attacked. Across the street an old lady took her candle and went from room to room to locate an old familiar enemy. This morning two high schools boys were missing at school!

The mystery deepens! you think? Not at all. It opens up clearly. The boys simply had not the practical training which should be taught in our schools. They lacked knowledge of a practical nature. On their way to town the day before they encountered a pole cat, slew him and dragged him to town. Hence the sniffing clerks, the cautious pedestrians, the fearful children, the alarmed old lady, and the absence of two students at school.

CATCHER AGNEW ON THE JOB.

Backstop Agnew, of the St. Louis Browns, mainstay of the Mound City crew of the American League, behind the bat, enjoys the enviable record of never having missed an opportunity to don the mask of his own volition during the season. He is generally there with the wallop, too, when called upon in an emergency.

Slumps of the Mighty.

Just about this time nearly every season the leaders in the two big league races hit a streak of indifferent going, play somewhat below their accustomed speed and lose a few percentage points from the margin they possessed over the runners-up. And just as regularly calamity howlers spy a fancied danger which they regard as a certainty that the pacemakers have broken and in the last few weeks will fall down and out, with team No. 2 clambering up over the ruins. This year, far from being an exception, is probably the best example of slumpophobia in recent times.

But the "crucial boys" have to have their fling. Back in 1908 the Cubs beat out the Giants by a hurricane finish when the "Merkle incident" made it a tie and necessitated a play-off game with the Giants. That is sufficient precedent for the scary ones to quote, despite the fact that since then there have been eight pennant campaigns, counting both circuits, and in each of them the leader has had a fair sized advantage at the threshold of September, with the said margin being cut down in the first two weeks of the month. A perusal of the chronicles shows that these two weeks have been the most disastrous of all the late season ones for the ultimate victors. But in each case, after the brief spell of adversity, the Labor Day leader has mounted up again and breezed through the wire with about the same edge as was held at the beginning of the month.

What would baseball be without slumps Had the Athletics and Giants not fallen into their brief periods of mediocrity, the two races would be jokes. Minus the slumps, the two would possess victories in nearly nine-tenths of their games. Nobody could expect them to maintain such a pace. In fact, even their most faithful admirers did not set a much higher mark for them than they have attained, with nearly 70 per cent of their games going on the credit side of the ledger. The other 30-something per cent have to be lost at some time or other, and it is impossible to keep some of them from coming in a bunch. Such bunches constitute the great institution of slump. Why try to make your favorite team do its losing one game at a time? If you do that, then you also have to cut out the long winning streaks. And, anyway, it can't be done.

Regardless of the nue and cry over the increasing closeness of the two battles in their waning days, the truth remains that there is less than one chance in a dozen hundred for either Giants or Athletics to be thrown off their perches. Moreover, the dictators of fashion have proclaimed that the style of the hour is to ignore the pennant races and look forward to the world's series beyond.

Clarke Griffith, the studious leader of the Senators, who shares with Connie Mack the reputation of being an "old fox", says that the supreme honors of baseball will depend on how Plank and Bender enter the fray. "If these two are right," he says, "there will be nothing to it." Griffith evidently has not heard the straight tip about Jack Coombs that has simmered about under the surface despite Connie Mack's repeated statement that Coombs will be unable to pitch until next year. If he were in the know, he surely would have brought in the name of the iron man.

Jack Coombs today is as fit as when he stood the league on its head two years ago. He has recovered entirely from his recent sickness and every day is pitching to his teammates in morning batting practice, using all the old stuff. That yarn about his broken knee cap that sprung up while the team was on its final Western trip was nothing more than a yarn. Coombs is pitching "the game of his life" sub rosa. Should the Naps do the improbable thing of winning their next dozen games and Mack's other pitchers should all break their legs, Connie will bring forth his big fellow as a last stand hero. And he will deliver the goods. But that is such a distant possibility that it hardly ought to be reckoned on. Connie even may not use him in the world's series if he finds the others are able to win easily. But, if the Giants make a hard fight of it and the tall Quaker is pressed closely, in will go Coombs. Then everybody will know that once more Connie has put one over on the dear old public.

Magnates large and magnates small are gathering in Cincinnati for the annual baseball lottery Monday—the draft. Indications are that this year's draft will be a bigger thing than any New York. It is the first time the scouts are supposed to have combed the underbrush more thoroughly than ever before. It is said that the Boston Nationals will put in claims for 20 minor leaguers, which would form a new record. Other major clubs are reported likely to go after almost that many, and a lovely little scramble is likely to ensue. The drafting by the large minor leagues from the smaller ones lends additional interest to the affair.

If rumors can be believed, President Tom Lynch, of the National League will find two newspaper men opposing him in the annual election this year. Robert Brown, of Louisville, has been mentioned in connection with the last two elections, and it is said that he is sure of three votes this time. The other man in question is John B. Foster, a former New York baseball writer, who now is secretary of the Giants. Just how Foster stands with the magnates of other clubs can not be ascertained at present. But his candidacy would make Lynch's re-election impossible, leaving only four votes even if nobody but his own club should support him. In case of such a deadlock, there may be another merry little scene such as arose when John Montgomery Ward ran against John Heydler three years ago, the occasion on which Lynch was brought in as a compromise candidate.

The series which began yesterday in Philadelphia with the Naps as visitors to the Athletics, is the last meeting of leaders and second placers in the American League this year. Three games are scheduled. There is one more clash of pacemaker and runner-up remaining in the National League, the Phillies beginning the last series of the year on October 2nd against the Giants at the Polo Grounds.

Taking Larry Chappell out of the limelight—down out of the first few places in the batting order—has proved a tonic to the batting eye of the expensive White Sox recruit. Since he has been hitting in seventh place, he has banged the elusive pill at what seems to be his proper speed, and it appears now to be not at all unlikely that he will be one of the star swatters of the league next year.

Next Wednesday will be the birthday of Tyrus Raymond Cobb, his age being 27. The star slugologist of the Detroit Tigers was born at Royston, Ga., on September 17, 1886.

Talk about speculation in world's series tickets: Just wait until November 29, when the Army-Navy football game is played in the Polo Grounds, New York. It itshe first time the classic has been staged in the big city. Here's offering a meerschaum pipe to a pinch of tobacco that all howl about world's series scalpers will be driven into the tall underbrush by the wail that will be raised over buying up the pasteboards to this affair by the "specs."

Football practice has begun in earnest already at several of the big colleges of the country. Princeton and Cornell have the jump on their Eastern rivals, both having put in a week of hard work. The Cornell squad is reported to be unusually formidable looking, considering the early date, only a few of the likely candidates being still absent. Coach Sharpe sends out word that his team will spring one of the sensations of the season in a youngster named Collins, who played quarterback on last year's freshmen. He rates the youth as one of the best open field runners he ever saw, and to be sure Sharpe has surveyed quite a number in his day.

Judging from what can be seen at a distance, Cornell should have a much better team than last year. The main thing to indicate this is the fact that it will be Sharpe's second year on the job. Last year he had to begin at the beginning and teach his system to men who had been used to entirely different methods. It was not until the final game, when they gave Penn a battle, that his charges showed they had taken hold. Now he has a nucleus of veterans familiar with his tactics. Moreover, he has a batch of sophomore eligibles who got a proper start in their freshman year. Previous to Sharpe's advent, the Cornell freshman teams had been nothing but scrubs for the 'varsity to buck up against in practice. Last Fall it was different with Sharpe in command. The youngsters got some real coaching along the lines of his ideas and will be much more valuable accordingly.

It looks as if Sam Langford will be a busy black between now and New Year's Day. If nothing bobs up to prevent his projected bout with Gunboat Smith in New York next Friday night, he will box before probably the biggest crowd gathered in Madison Square Garden this year. It is regarded as practically certain, of course, that the Tar Baby will finish the white hope. Then there probably will be a bout with Joe Jeannette, which may give Sam a little trouble. However, he figures to beat Joseph, too. Then on to Paris and Jack Johnson—that is, if the French do not decide finally that Lil Artha is an undesirable and fire him out. Smith, Jeannette, Johnson—quite a little programme for anyone to tackle. But Sam ought to be able to go through with it and emerge with the best claim he ever had on the world's title. The long-idle Johnson is hard to figure as a real trouble maker for Langford, particularly in view of what Sam did to him in Boston a number of years ago.

THE LEADING SWATTERS

The Ten Leading Big Stick Men in Each League for the Week Ending Last Thursday.

The Honorable Tyrus Raymond Cobb, although he just held his pace and shows up with the same percent-age as last week, jumped into first place in the American League batting arena by virtue of a Jackson slump, for the first time that he has held this honor as a week-end record, ending last Thursday night, to which day all weekly batting averages are figured. Jackson shows a net loss of nine points for the week, while Tris Speaker shows a loss of one point. Hendrickson, of Boston, was injected in his first game for three months on last Thursday, and as a result shows a gain of nine points. The make-up of the select dozen shows no new names for the week.

The National line-up shows Earl Yingling, the Brooklyn twirler, deposed from his long stand at first place, having dropped to fifth position. Daubert, of Brooklyn, the real leader of the league, shows a net loss of a half dozen points for the week, and is tied with Cavath, of the Phillies. Becker, of the Phillies, is the only new name on the roll of honor for the week.

NEWBERN MAN KILLS HIMSELF

Adolph Roberts, Owner Commercial Printing & Rubber Stamp Works, Commits Suicide by Shooting—Second Attempt.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Newbern, N. C., Sept. 13.—With a 32-calibre revolver clasped in his hand, and a gaping bullet wound in his right temple, Adolph Roberts, proprietor of the Commercial Printing & Rubber Samp Works, was found lying dead in his bed at the home of his brother, Will Roberts, No. 162 South Front street, at an early hour this morning, the self-inflicted wound having been made between the hours of 1 and 6 o'clock.

Mr. Roberts has for years been in and health, being afflicted with same disease of the blood, and constant brooding over this and probable business worries are believed to have been the cause of his rash act.

Once before during the past week, had Mr. Roberts attempted his life, this was on Thursday night. Closing his place of business Thursday afternoon, he did not go home, but instead remained in the building, and turned on the gas. His sister, Miss Lona, who also resides at the home of Will Roberts, thought it strange that her brother did not come home to his supper, but finally came to the conclusion that his duties at the office were such that he was compelled to remain there until late at night in order to attend to them. When she retired for the night, Mr. Roberts had not made his appearance. Upon arising Friday morning, she found that he had not been at home during the night. Upon the arrival of Mr. Will Roberts, she informed him of this fact, and he went at once to his brother's place of business and found him lying unconscious on the floor and the place filled with the fumes of gas. He was placed in a carriage and carried home as quickly as possible and a physician summoned who finally succeeded in resuscitating him.

Mr. Roberts appeared to be truly repentant of this attempt at his life, and promised that he would never again make such an attempt if the family would keep the affair a secret, and this they consented to do. He remained around the house all during the day, and at night seemed to be much improved, and in a more cheerful frame of mind.

The last time he was seen alive was just before he went to his room to retire. Miss Lona Roberts did not retire until 1 o'clock, and she is positive that her brother did not kill himself before that hour. During the remainder of the night, the occupants of the house heard no unusual noise and it is believed that in order to muffle the report of the revolver, Mr. Roberts wrapped it in the bed clothing. That he had been dead several hours was evidenced by the fact that rigor mortis had set in and his body was stiff and cold when the undertaker arrived on the scene a short time after it had been found.

HEE HAW! A MULE!

Maude Is to Have a Coming Out Party at LaGrange.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Sept. 13.—LaGrange, the second town in Lenoir county, is to have a "mule show." It will hardly attract society as do the horse shows of the social centers of the country, but the LaGrange exhibit is intended to be of much practical benefit to the farmers throughout this section.

No date has been set for the show, but every owner of young mule stock in the vicinity has been invited to enter his colts in the exhibit. D. W. Wood, a county commissioner, is at the head of the promoting organization and all the veterinarians in the surrounding country are lending their aid for the exhibit's success.

The event is to be widely advertised. The stock in the LaGrange country is of a superior order and hundreds of entries of young hybrids are expected to be made. Prizes in substantial sums of money will be given, sales conducted, and possibly discussion of stock-breeding by veterinarians and experts.

Two tobacco planters accosted by a negro in the vicinity of a sales warehouse here yesterday readily consented to pay $1.50 if he would bring them "something." He brought them "something." It was vinegar. They looked exceedingly sour. The victims appealed to Chief of Police Moseley, but he was powerless, for the black had only guaranteed to bring them "something," and he had fulfilled his contract.

YOUTH'S STRANGE DEAH.

Edward Lambert, of Mount Olive, Dies of Peculiar Illness.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Mount Olive, N. C., Sept. 13.—Last night Mr. Edward Lambert, who lives with his sister, Mrs. Fannie H. Bird, complained of feeling rather ill and refused to eat supper, retiring earlier than usual. In about a half hour Mrs. Bird was attracted by a noise in his room, and found him unconscious.

Hastily summoned physicians worked hard and long to restore him without avail, and he died just before midnight. No cause can be assigned with an degree of certainty for his untimely taking off. He was a young man who enjoyed fairly good health. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. M. C. S. Cherry, Miss Hazel Lambert and Mrs. Bird, of this place, and was a son of the late Frank J. Lambert, being about 23 years old. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

A series of meetings will begin in the Methodist church here tomorrow to be conducted by Rev. J. H. Bizelle, the music to be under direction of Prof. Parker, of Durham. On the 21st a series of meetings will be conducted by Rev. F. D. King, of Wilmington, assisted by Pastor W. B. Oliver.

New cotton is being marketed here every day now in quantities. The price averages from 12 to 12 1-2 cents.

WILL BUY SLOOP.

Alexander S. Cochran to Purchase Vessel to Race Against Lipton.

Bristol, R. I., Sept. 13.—Alexander S. Cochran, of the New York Yacht Club, owner of the noted racing schooner Westward, is negotiating for a sloop to contend next year as a defender of the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton, it was learned today.

Mr. Cochran, it is said, is willing to bear the whole expense himself and has named $90,000 as the sum he is willing to put into a 75-foot sloop.

IMPEACHMENT COURT SUPREME.

Supreme Court of New York Cannot Interfere With Proceedings.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Supreme Court of New York State is powerless to interfere with the prerogatives of the court of impeachment which is to convene next Thursday to hear the charges filed against Governor William Sulzer.

The impeachment court not only has the right to judge the guilt or innocence of the accused executive, but also has authority to determine the validity of the action of the Assembly in adoptinb articles of impeachment.

Once impeached, Governor Sulzer's executive functions were transferred automatically to Lieutenant Governor Glynn, until the impeachment court has passed upon the charges.

Supreme Court Justice Chester so decided today in denying an application made in behalf of Samuel Fowler, of Rensselaer, for a writ of prohibition designed to prevent the court of impeachment from hearing the Sulzer charges. Fowler's attorneys served notice that they would take an immediate appeal, but the case is not expected to reach the court of appeals before the impeachment trial begins.

The proceedings were instituted as a taxpayer's action to restrain the impeachment court from convening, on the ground that the Assembly could not legally adopt articles of impeachment at an extraordinary session.

New York, Sept. 13.—Charles Dersch tonight denied that he had made a statement to the Sulzer impeachment managers about having collected $50,000 for the Sulzer campaign.

"I talked to Mr. Kresel, of counsel for the board of managers, Friday," said Mr. Dersch, "and told him that ex-Senator Charles A. Stadler and some of his friends, all of them friends of Governor Sulzer, had made up a little fund to contribute to Sulzer's campaign fund. It was about $1,000 certainly no more than $1,200. I took the checks down—a few checks—and I really acted as the messenger in taking them to Mr. Sulzer. That was all there was to my testimony."

Mr. Dersch said the naming of a sum anything like $50,000 was preposterous.

GOVERNOR RESCINDS ORDER.

That Foreigners in Mexico Surrender Firearms to Constitutionalists.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 13.—That Governor Maytorena will rescind his recent order that Americans and other foreigners in Sonora must surrender all firearms to the constitutionalists was reported today. It was the Governor's intended action was due to violent oposition on the part of American residents of Sonora who had prepared to fight in preference to rendering themselves defenseless. Maytorena's modified plan, it was said, would merely make it necessary for foreigners to obtain permits to carry arms.

Much dissension has developed in Sonora, according to reports reaching Douglas, over Gen. Carranza's plan to appoint former Acting Governor Pesquiera military governor of that State to succeed Maytorena.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

Finger-print Method of Identification Might be Made Useless.

San Francisco, Sept. 13.—A discovery that might make the finger-print method of identification in use by the police throughout the world a dangerous and consequently useless system, was announced today by Theodore Kytka, municipal handwriting expert, who asserts that he was able to transfer finger prints from one object to another.

By means of Kytka's discovery, finger prints invisible to the eye, left on paper or glass could be transferred to other objects with the aim of fastening crime on innocent persons, or confusing evidence.

WALKING FOR $4,000 HOME.

Woman and Children Step Distance from New York to Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Mary E. Chester and her three children, Alice, 15 years old; Henry, 14, and Charles, 13, arrived here today after having walked from New York city in 43 days, according to her story. It is their intention to continue their walk to Minneapolis, and if the entire journey is completed within 65 days, she declares the business men of Middletown, N. Y., have agreed to build them a $4,000 residence.

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 13.—Major William Ellis, of Elliston, Va., a son-in-law of the late President John Tyler, was today nominated by the Democrats of Montgomery county, as a candidate for the Virginia House of Delegates. He is 68 years old and served in the Legislature from 1879 to 1883. Major Ellis will be opposed by a Republican, the incumbent.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 13.—The commander of the battleship Nebraska today sent a wireless message denying that one of the Nebraska's boiler heads had blown out while the ship was at battle practice. He said there was a "back header" on board while the Nebraska was at anchor on the Southern drill grounds, but that no one was hurt.

A sixteenth of an inch of scale on the interior of a boiler will cause a loss of 12 per cent fuel efficiency.

GOOD WAY TO DO BUSINESS

J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co. Sell Reliable Remedy at Half Price and Guarantee a Cure

When one can buy gold dollars for fifty cents, it is a good time to purchase.

In ordering a 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at 25 cents, they are giving one of the greatest trade chances ever offered to the people of Wilmington.

Even though offered at half price for introductory purposes the specific is sold under a guarantee to cure or the money will be refunded.

If food does not digest well, if there is gas or pain in the stomach, if the tongue is coated and the breath bad, if there is constipation and straining Dr. Howard's specific will cure you. If it does not, you have Druggist J. Hicks Bunting's personal guarantee to return your money.

Dr. Howard's specific gives quick relief and makes permanent cures of constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles.

These are strong statements, but J. Hicks Bunting is giving his customers a chance to prove his truth at just half the regular price—sixty doses for 25 cents. If they are not found true all you have to do is to ask for your money.

SCHOONER WELLS BURNED.

Stranded Vessel Bought for $800 Alleged to Have Been Set on Fire.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 13.—Telegraphic advices were today received that the wreck of the six masted Boston schooner George W. Wells had burned on the Ocracoke, N. C., beach. The fire is alleged to have been incendiary. The Wells was recently sold on the beach for $800.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 13.—Capt. Joseph York, of the six masted schooner George W. Wells, which was wrecked off Ocracoke during the hurricane of September 3rd, arrived here today with Mate Gus Green and three passengers. Capt. York declares he is going to Washington to file charges against the life savers. He declares a ring, or combination, exists among the life savers to buy wrecked vessels from insurance people and prevent competitive bidding. He says he was forced to sell the Wells for $800 when he should have received $1,200.

He declares the natives of Ocracoke boarded the doomed vessel after the storm and took everything they could carry away. He says there were 17 boats containing Ocracoke residents alongside the schooner at one time and he was forced to drive them away at the point of a gun.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Accompanied by committees of the Senate and House the body of the late Representative William H. Wilder, of Massachusetts, today was taken to Gardner, that State, for burial. His widow and five children were in the funeral party.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published daily except Monday, at $6 per year, $3 for six months; $1.50 for three months; 50 cents for one month, served by carriers in the city, or by mail.

THE SUNDAY STAR, by mail, one year, $1; six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES may be had on application, and advertisers may feel assured that through the columns of this paper they may reach all Wilmington, Eastern Carolina and contiguous territory in South Carolina.

Obituary sketches, cards of thanks, communications espousing the cause of a private enterprise or a political candidate, and like matter, will be charged at the rate of 10 cents per line to persons carrying a regular account, or, if paid cash in advance, a half rate will be allowed. Announcements of fairs, festivals, balls, hops, picnics, excursions, society meetings, political meetings, etc., will be charged under the same conditions, except so much thereof as may be of news value to readers of the paper, in the discretion of the editor.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 51; Editorial and Local rooms, No. 61. Call other, if the other doesn't answer.

COMMUNICATIONS, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and, if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected unless the real name of the author accompanies the same, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

ALL DRAFTS, checks, express money orders and postal money orders for the paper should be made payable, and all communications should be addressed to,

The demand for some place for folks to stay in this town is something fierce.

The man who would lure mosquitoes to their death with music is ordered to bring on his orchestra.

Swat the peanut politician! Like the fly, he's little but he can carry a lot of devilment around with him.

The Glass bill will give the Republicans in Congress a chance to see themselves as others see them.

"Thaw deported," says a newspaper headline. B'gosh, looks as if he was unceremoniously dumped on Vermont.

It is a great pity that nobody can take this Thaw mess by the nape of the neck and hurl it into utter, everlasting oblivion.

Man may get it into his head that he is the whole cheese but he has to bow to the inevitable and knuckle down to work.

The average politician wants a "lucrative situation," but very few of them would be worth a cent in the Mexican situation.

A Southerner's idea of divorce is that his wife would rake him over the coals if he thought of such a thing in a civilized country.

Those Virginians whose wives are going to fight the suffragettes no doubt are willing to bet that the suffragettes will have to "give in."

While we are anxious to restore peace in Mexico, the Mexicans keep right on fighting so they can restore peace that will be satisfactory to them.

It is good for the tariff that it got out of the way of the world series just when it did, otherwise there might have been a few schedules among the missing.

What Mexico needs is nine-months schools and compulsory attendance. There, as here, education is the remedy for all the ills the body politic is heir to.

The States which have gone to work and gotten themselves a deep-water port are not kicking about discriminatory freight rates. Selah, as well as Nota Bene.

President Huerta needn't mind it because this country doesn't recognize him. It doesn't even recognize some of its closest kin unless they quit being poor.

If we don't seize our opportunities they are sure to be seized by others. Since we are here where we can see them first, we ought to beat the other fellow to everything in sight.

Henry George writes: "The fiat has gone forth!" The fiat has gone forth since the earliest day of our recollection. What the fiat needs to do is to come back and bring something with it.

The Baltimore Sun inquires: "Are there no more gentlemen?" Of course, there are a few left, as we have seen two or three out of a hundred get up and give their seat in a car to some lady.

The old people in Orange county haven't been so scared since Cornwallis pounded the cobbles in Hillsboro as they were when that circus elephant thundered through their cow pastures and turnip patches the other day.

Greatest country in the world—what? Young man at Southport owes a note of $65, falling due in a few moments. What does he do? Gets in his boat, goes out and catches a load of mullet meat, sells it for enough cash to meet his note, and pays it triumphantly.

"Man was not made to labor," says the Chicago News poet. Labor! Why, labor is only a matter of choice. A man can labor and live off the fat of the land, or he can refuse to labor, go hungry, sleep in the cow shed, and finally be put on the roads for vagrancy. No, a man is not made to labor but when he gets on the roads he is made to labor.

NEWBERN AS A RATE BASING POINT.

The Newbern Journal commends the suggestion of Mr. J. Allan Taylor, of Wilmington, that the port of Newbern might also be made a rate basing point. Our esteemed contemporary quotes this from the newspaper report of the proceedings of the advisory committee of the North Carolina Just Freight Rate Association, at its meeting in Raleigh a few days ago, when President Tate, of the Association, and his committee, held a conference with Governor Craig:

"Mr. J. Allan Taylor, of Wilmington, who is a recognized rate expert, made a special presentation of the benefits to be derived from making Wilmington the basing point for North Carolina rates, insisting that relief must ultimately come through recognition of the potentiality of water competition in controlling railroad freight rates. Mr. Taylor's position is being strongly seconded by W. S. Creighton, rate expert, of Charlotte. Mr. Taylor also believes that Newbern might be made a basing point."

The Journal takes up with Mr. Taylor's suggestion and wants Newbern to have justness meted out to her as she deserves. If rates are generally overhauled, it will be some time before they can be readjusted to suit all localities, but as the Just Freight Rate Association should be just itself it is to be presumed that the square deal will be given to all the commercial centers of the State. The Journal goes on to say in this connection:

"The Journal has been assured by a Newbern jobber who says he is sure of his ground that Wilmington has now no advantage over Newbern in rates, and that any additional advantage that may be given to Wilmington will also automatically come to Newbern, both being water points. We hope he is correct and have no reason to doubt it. The view of Mr. Taylor seems to support that of the local authority whom we have in mind and is, of course, very encouraging to all who want to see Newbern well taken care of in the final adjustment of the freight rate matter.

"In previous discussions, by the way, Newbern did not get the 'favorable mention' that it did Wednesday, its prominence in the conference this time being due, of course, to the fact that it had joined the Just Freight Rate Association and had a representative at the conference to see that in the laying of plans for the securing of relief this city should not be overlooked.

"The conference does not appear to have been very fruitful of results, but nobody who has given the matter any thought has believed that the problem was one easy of solution. It will doubtless take many more conferences before even a fairly good start has been made. But the cause is a just one and eventually victory will be won."

While water transportation gives Newbern an advantage just as it does Elizabeth City, the question as to what constitutes a rate basing port will have to be decided on the amount of steamship service a port has and the actual competition that such water traffic brings about. Deep water itself does not constitute a rate basing port, but deep water, plus ample steamship service and terminal railroad facilities, does. The particular advantage of having one or more rate basing ports in North Carolina is that it will benefit the State more than it will the port, unless the port can actually be used by the commercial and manufacturing centers of the State.

Traffic for the interior will not necessarily pass through a rate basing port, but rail rates will be based from a recognized point while all of an interior city's traffic may go by rail. Yet, as the rail rate is based on the port rate, it is thus that a deep water port benefits interior points which do not get a parcel of freight by water.

It depends upon the ports themselves as to what they will do with their oportunities, so that if Wilmington, Newbern or Point Lookout should be made rate basing points, it would not change their status unless they secure the steamship and railway service that can be utilized by themselves, as well as by all the State. For instance, to be a nominal rate basing point without the steamship service and water terminals that will enable economical transfer of freight by rail and water, would not be of much advantage to the rate basing point itself. The rate basing point with the most ships, the best terminals and the prestige of commerce would be a hard competitor for the rate basing point that is nominally so but is without the facilities.

It behooves Newbern and Wilmington to have modern water terminals for the benefit of themselves as well as the State. The port which is best equipped is the port that is going to get the business. The State ought to insist that the ports be equipped with terminals, else establish terminals so it can get the actual benefit of its rate basing point.

GAYNOR AS A WARRIOR.

Whatever other traits of character he had that appealed to people, it seems to us that one of the most admirable things about the late Mayor Gaynor was his fighting qualities. Right or wrong, he battled for his convictions, and we are told that his entire career was one long battle, first with poverty and then in the political field. Many a man pitted against heavy odds and battling with circumstance, might find inspiration in the record the old man left—the record of one of the Old Guard, who died but never surrendered.

Setting forth on the voyage to meet his death, stricken in body and doubtless knowing all too well that he would live but a short time, the old fellow's last words as he sailed were, "This fight must go on!" The fight against Tammany, he meant, and his gray spirit was eager to get into it. His spirit was unconquerable, his will indomitable. His life was marked by heavy labor. He was always on the job. While a judge it is said, he would spend longer hours on the bench than any other judge, and always when he was urged to let up, take a rest, go off on a vacation, he would reply, "Impossible, absolutely impossible!" He was probably approaching the battle of his life in the Fall mayoralty contest, and on departing he declared that he intended to lay bare the sordid story of Tammany Hall, but death cut him down even while he planned his fight. "So much to do, so little done," has always been the despairing cry of men like Gaynor, and it was his. He didn't want to die; he wanted to fight it out! Whatever else may be said of him, however wrong he was here or there, it must be said that he was a son of battle, a man unafraid, a warrior to the end and game to the last.

THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY.

It has been suggested that the manufacture of the cheaper grades of automobiles would be a profitable industry in the South where timber is available. An experienced dealer in machines says the South could manufacture high-grade machines just as well, but that there is surer profit in the cheaper class of machines.

Last year a Northern company which manufactured an inexpensive type of motor car declared a dividend of $10,000,000, whereas the American Locomotive Company, which undertook to manufacture the expensive Alco car, quit the business after losing $600,000 a year. The cheaper machines found a larger and readier market than did the high-priced cars.

The automobile has come to stay because it is now largely a necessity. Therefore, there ought not to be a more profitable industry than one which can supply a ready demand at home.

The London Chronicle tells us that the word "blackguard" was of royal origin and that when it was coined it did not have the meaning that it has today in South Carolina. Around the palace of the ancient kings of England, a guard was maintained for the protection of the king. The guards also served around the palace, and the duty of carrying in coal was assigned to one. He handled so much coal that he was always black, hence they called ed him the black guard. We fancy that later it was looked upon as a menial job, and it may have gotten so that nobody but a low ball, tough character or onery cuss, would carry in coal. Probably one of the black guards was so tough and vulgar that he brought reproach on the name, so that "blackguard" thereafter became a word of reproach. We should state in an orthoepitical way that when South Carolina politicians bullrag each other on the stump, the low country South Carolinians refer to it as blackguarding each other.

The current rumor that buttermilk is good and healthful was verified several hundred years ago. Of course, buttermilk is good all right, but where is the sweet milk that has to be converted into the two products—butter and buttermilk? A country that doesn't produce its own milk, butter and buttermilk ought to do like countries that have fine cows and pastures for them. One of the best evidences that turning cows out into the woods is a mistaken idea is that this country of ours has to get its butter and beef from the West, or do without.

"Umpire insane." Of course. Why not?

The Wake county man who killed a negro because he was indecent before his family got four months in the jail. The provocation doubtless was sufficient to enrage him, but at the same time he had no business taking the law into his own hands. He got off too light. There is entirely too much shooting in North Carolina. The remedy is punishment that would appal and prevent.

If Congressmen will take our advice they will jump across their appointments Rubicon and name their men and be done with it. The more they fool around trying to pacify every group of job-hunters, the more feeling they will engender. Congressman Godwin seems to be of a mind to make his recommendations and finish it up.

It is J. Ed Albright, of Greensboro, who has raised the query, "Why pay 'phone rent in advance?" He declares the service is poor and won't pay in advance. The company cuts out his 'phone, whereupon he calls on the public to back him and he will fight it clear through. He will have a lot of sympathy.

The inconsistent man deplores the power of money and then goes forth and gets money from numerous audiences by warning them that the mad chase after the dollar is debauching the people. Why should vain man knock a dollar and then act the "shortstop" for every dollar that comes whizzing his way?

Mr. Anderson, of Minnesota, got mad and resigned from the Ways and means committee. His resignation indicates that he really was a member, so it will do some good at any rate. Some men gain notoriety by doing something ridiculous.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Sephus Daniels is writing a life of Wilson "from the cradle to almost imperial power." Sephus is not the ablest man Woodrow has made prominent, but he is the most grateful one.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

Sephus Daniels' old young man of the Raleigh News and Observer wore South Carolina hair before he lost it trying to make these extraordinary sessions of the Legislature vote for the uplift and agin the freight rates.—Columbia State.

Farm products are materially higher on the farm than they were at this time last year, according to figures of the Agricultural Department. How parcel post distribution of produce is to work out for the consumer remains to be seen.—New York World.

Compulsory school attendance law which is soon to be in effect in North Carolina is a most wise provision. North Carolina has need of more education for its people, as shown by its place next to the last in the illiteracy column of States. Progress in education is what is needed in this State and the compulsory school law is a big step forward in that direction.—Raleigh News and Observer.

"Says the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot: 'Stealing a Newport News girl is only petit larceny.' To surreptitiously appropriate and hie away with a Wilmington girl would create a bigger row than was made over Helen of Troy."—Wilmington Star. This is an indirect admission that Wilmington has never produced a girl of sufficient attraction to tempt a modern Paris to dare all for her possession. If Norfolk were to kick up a rumpus every time that some audacious outsider made off with one of her star-eyed goddesses, we should be living in a state of perpetual conflict.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

There is not enough danger of William Travers Jerome being shot in Canada to justify him in wearing a bullet-proof vest, but the threats are worth a moment's attention merely because they illustrate the imbecility of public sentiment in Coaticook and Sherbrooke. Why should these Canadians care whether this American, who is either a murderer or a maniac, shall go free or be returned to the asylum to which he was legally committed and of which he was glad enough as a refuge from the electric chair? Why should the crowd take the trouble to cheer for him and to manifest feelings of bitterness toward Jerome?—Philadelphia Record.

Up in Catawba county a miracle has been wrought similar to that in Mecklenburg county. Says a special from Newton: "Thousands of dollars will annually go down into the pockets of Catawba county farmers, the product of land that formerly grew nothing but bullrushes and swamp bushes." The answer is drainage. The farmers along Clark's Creek will make thousands of bushels of corn this year on creek bottoms that could not be cultivated before the creek was dredged. Some of the best land in North Carolina, land that will produce 75 bushels or more of corn to the acre and will need no fertilizer for years, lies along the banks of Long Creek in this county and is only awaiting drainage to be utilized. The County Drainage Commission has a dredge now that is idle and could be put to work on that creek, but strange to say there are objections from some of the property owners because of the cost, which could be recuperated in probably one year. — Charlotte Chronicle.

WILMINGTON IN THE SIXTIES.

To the Editor of The Star:

I have been very much interested in reading "Wilmington in the Sixties" in your paper, having known Wilmington since April, 1861, where my company was encamped prior to going to Smithville (Southport). I am very familiar with the names mentioned in your compilation of the old director of the city, and have gone over them carefully.

There are just 305 names and from that large number as I recall them, all but four have passed over the river. These are G. W. Huggins, C. H. Robinson, Joe Meir and P. Hernsberger. Many of those named in the story were my personal friends. Not a single professional of that date is living—lawyer, doctor, dentist, minister or member of city or county government. New Hanover was a large county at that date, extending from above Harrell's store and going to the Duplin and Onslow line.

Remember, I am only recalling those names mentioned in your article. It would be a great pleasure to me to know just how many persons who were living in New Hanover in 1861 are living today. If every one living would drop a postal to The Star, it would be interesting reading.

New Autumn Suits

It would be a dreary old world, if all the people wore the same sort of clothes all the year 'round. The new clothes of each season are a world-tonic, and it is a natural impulse, and not an idle whim, for people to desire a change of dress, apart altogether from the demands of change of atmospheric conditions.

Also—and this is very important—it keeps the wheels turning and the wolf at a respectful distance from millions of doors.

The new Fall Suits are ready for your approval. We would ask that you give us the or two of clear, bright, cool weather to set a woman thinking of Autumn Clothes Needs. two of clear, bright, cool weather to set a woman thinking of Autumn Clothes Needs.

U. C. T. MEETING YESTERDAY

Cape Fear Council of Commercial Travelers Held First Fall Session—Press Committee Was Appointed.

The first meeting for the Fall of Cape Fear Council, No. 374, U. C. T., was held in council hall over the Murchison National Bank yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. During the Summer there have not been any meetings of the Council on account of most of the traveling men of Wilmington being away on their vacations.

It was decided yesterday to begin active work at once towards reviving interest in the work of the association and to this end a press committee composed of Messrs. C. J. Roberts, Horace Pearsall and W. O. Page was appointed to take up the matter of supplying more publicity in regard to the work of the organization.

This committee has arranged with The Star to have a column in the Sunday issue each week devoted to matters of interest to traveling men. By this means the members will be enabled to keep in touch with each other and also to keep informed as to the work of the organization. All members are invited and urged to send in any items of interest to The Star office, especially personal items. This is a feature that has become a most interesting part of many papers in the country, and the fact that The Star is to have it also will be gladly welcomed by hundreds of readers who are greatly interested in the comings and goings of the "knights of the grip."

Mr. F. V. DeVyver, Junior Councilor of Mt. Vernon Council, No. 457, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was present at the meeting yesterday, and occupied the Junior Councilor's chair. He made a most interesting talk, and gave many valuable suggestions by which interest in the organization could be increased. He is a fine type of the alert traveling man, always ready to talk business, and at the same time a clever and accommodating gentleman.

The next meeting of the Council will be held the second Saturday in October, and at that time it is expected to have plans completed for beginning a live campaign for new members, and for reviving interest in the order.

A committee was appointed to select a representative to attend the annual meeting of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association which will be held in November at Jacksonville, Fla.

New Train to Florence.

Effective tomorrow trains Nos. 57 and 58 will run from Wilmington to Florence instead of to Chadbourn as heretofore. The train will be daily except Sunday leaving Florence at 5:45 A. M.; Chadbourn at 7:53 A. M. and arriving as usual from Chadbourn and Conway at 9:45 A. M. Returning the train will leave Wilmington at 7 P. M.; Chadbourn at 8:48 P. M., reaching Florence at 11 P. M.

The extension of these two trains to Florence has been agitated by the local Council of the U. C. T. for several years, and several times committees have been appointed to confer with the railroad authorities in regard to putting on the new service. The traveling men deserve much of the credit for this additional accommodation on the part of the railroad. This schedule now gives Wilmington three trains to Florence, the others leaving Wilmington at 5:35 A. M. and 3:15 P. M., the two last named running daily.

CORN SHOW PROPOSED.

Mr. Geo. H. Hutaff Will Furnish the Hall for the Exhibit.

In turning over to Mr. J. P. Herring, the county agricultural demonstrator, the check of $100 from the Coca-Cola Bottling Works to be used in premiums for the winners in the boys' corn club contest, Mr. Geo. H. Hutaff, the wide-awake president of the company, yesterday suggested to Mr. Herring that a corn show be held in Wilmington in December at which the boys who entered the contest could have some of their choice corn on exhibition. The suggestion met with the favor of the county demonstrator and if the boys want a corn show it is most likely that they will have it.

Mr. Hutaff has kindly consented to furnish the hall in which to hold the show in case it is decided to have it. The Woolvin Hall, on Princess street, would make an ideal place for such an exhibit and an effort will be made to secure it if the show is put on. Mr. Hutaff suggests also that the boys should be given an outing at the beach with an oyster roast as an additional attraction.

The Coca-Cola Bottling Works, said Mr. Hutaff, will give $100 each year to be used for premiums for the winners in the boys' corn club contests. He is very much interested in the development of agriculture in this county and section and believes that this is one of the best ways in which he can lend aid. He is gratified at the large number of boys who have entered the corn club contests in this and adjoining counties.

Corn will be harvested in October and Mr. Hutaff thinks the exhibit should be held early in December.

WILMINGTON LAW SCHOOL.

Opened Friday Night in Bunting Building With Good Enrollment.

The Wilmington Law School opened Friday night at its rooms in the J. Hicks Bunting building, corner Front and Grace streets, at 8 o'clock. Addresses were made by several members of the local bar. Secretary Walter C. Benson states that there has been a very gratifying enrollment and that he is expecting quite a large registration both from the city and from elsewhere within the next few days.

There are two large class rooms as well as office space in the school's quarters, and the facilities are first-class in every way. There will be classes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 8 to 10 o'clock, and each class will be in charge of a competent instructor. The school will be under the direct supervision of the dean, Harry E. Rogers, Esq., who is an experienced instructor in the law. In addition to his duties as dean of the law school he will also enter into the active practice of law.

Effective Revival in Progress.

The series of revival services being held at the Sixth Street Advent church by the pastor, Rev. J. P. King, have resulted in an unusual religious awakening among the large number attending, and hundreds are manifesting great interest in the salvation of themselves and others. The interest shown demands that the meetings continue through this week. The subject of the pastor's sermon this morning will be "The Mission of Eleazor in Search of a Wife for His Master, Isaac."

MAIL CLERKS ENTER PROTEST

White Railway Mail Clerks Have to Serve Under Negroes on Trains Out of Wilmington—Notice to Godwin.

Railway mail clerks running in and out of Wilmington, especially on the W. & W. road of the Atlantic Coast Line, will file protest to Congressman Godwin, of the Sixth North Carolina District, and chairman of the Civil Service Committee of the House, against the practice of some "left over" Republican chief railway mail clerks in placing negroes in full charge of cars in which white men are clerks.

Recently a protest went to Congressman Godwin because of a negro clerk being placed over white clerks between Fayetteville and Florence, S. C., and shortly thereafter came the announcement that the desired change had been made, whereby a white clerk was placed in charge. A similar protest went up from another point in the South and in this case also the request was granted. The white clerks have no especial objection to working in the same car with negro clerks, but do not like the idea of having to work under the direction of negro clerks.

It is stated that on Train No. 91, a negro clerk is in charge between Norfolk and Goldsboro with two white clerks under him. On trains Nos. 48 and 49, between Wilmington and Norfolk, every other day there is a negro clerk in charge with three white clerks under him.

Writing in yesterday's Norfolk Virginian-Pilot with regard to an investigation of the situation in North Carolina as to negro mail clerks being placed over white clerks, Mr. D. K. Wright, of Raleigh, had the following relative to what he found on the Atlantic Coast Line between Wilmington and Norfolk:

"Again on the Atlantic Coast Line, between Norfolk, Va., and Wilmington, N. C., there are 15 clerks, four of whom are negroes. Two of these negroes are clerks in full charge, while there are five white men who have to work according to negro instructions.

"Within the past 10 days there was a vacancy to be filled on the line between Norfolk and Wilmington, N. C., four regularly appointed white clerks on other lines in the territory made application for this vacancy, which is customary under the rules of the mail service, but neither of these white clerks was allowed to transfer to this more desirable position, but a negro substitute was appointed, thereby ignoring the seniority of these white clerks and giving the negro the best to be had, that which of right and long established precedent belonged to the senior white clerks.

"These discriminations, unjust rulings and negro supervision are the doings of 'left over Republicans', a slap in the face to the present Democratic administration.

"A blot on the administration to be reviewed in years to come.

"We are wondering how long before the Postmaster General, Mr. Burleson, will call a halt on the nefarious doings of the 'left over Republicans' in their unfair and unjust rulings and negro supervision over white mail clerks.

"Segregation or resignation is the key to the situation."

THE BETTER BABIES CONTEST

Will be Held in November by Sorosis in Connection With Fine Arts Exhibit—Object and Nature of Exhibition.

As stated in yesterday's Star, the North Carolina Sorosis is planning to have a Better Babies Contest in connection with the Fine Arts Exhibit to be given early in November provided there are a sufficient number of entries to justify it. These contests are being held in many cities of the country, and are a part of a popular yet scientific movement to insure better babies and a better race. They consist of entering, examining and awarding prizes to children of three years or less on exactly the same basis that are applied to livestock shows.

Mere beauty does not count in the contest. Physical and mental development only are considered. It is expected that the better babies contests will insure better American citizens because they teach parents how to improve the physical condition of children already born and to protect those unborn. It is intended to arouse interest in the conservation of child life and health and all forms of child welfare. Not only does it forge a connecting link between the parents and teachers, but it also promotes civic interest in children of the community, their schools and their recreations. And finally, it will supply to the medical profession, by means of score cards, what has long been desired, namely, measurement of the standard child.

The contest is usually held under the auspices of a woman's club, mothers' congress, a teachers' association or any other organization interested in public health and welfare. It will be held in Wilmington under the auspices of the Sorosis, which, as is well known, is doing much along all lines to advance the interests and welfare of the city and county. The prizes, score cards and literature for the contest are supplied by the Better Babies Bureau, of the Woman's Home Companion.

The Better Babies standard score card has been prepared to test the physical and mental development of children between six months and three years of age. The classification will be in three divisions: the first division being open only to babies from rural districts and towns of 1,000 population or less; the second division open only to babies from towns of over 1,000 and less than 5,000 population; the third division open to babies from towns and cities of over 5,000 population.

In each division there will be four classes, as follows: First, boy, six months and under 24 months; second, boy, 24 months and under 36 months of age; third, girl, six months and under 24 months; fourth, girl, 24 months and under 36 months of age. Sweepstakes will be awarded the highest scoring boy of any age and the highest scoring girl of any age. The championship goes to the highest scoring boy or girl of any division, and the prize will be a handsome gold medal.

The examinations will be conducted and averages determined by means of the Better Babies standard scoring card, prepared by Dr. Agnes Ditson and Prof. Sanford Bell, of Denver, Colo., and Dr. Roger H. Dennett, of New York. Those who desire full particulars of the contest to be held in Wilmington can get them by writing the president of the North Carolina Sorosis at Wilmington.

ANNA HELD COMING.

Important Theatrical Announcement Was Made Yesterday.

Probably the most important theatrical announcement made in Wilmington's history was that yesterday that Anna Held would visit Wilmington and that at an early date.

Heading her own company of vaudeville artists, making up an attraction known as the "Anna Held All-Star Variety Jubilee," this noted artist will appear in Wilmington Wednesday night, September 24th, which is near at hand. It will be the most wonderful vaudeville attraction ever in the South and the most elaborate production the Academy stage has known. The company travels on its own special train of Pullmans and will be brought into the city this way. Theatre-goers will hear of the coming of this great attraction, which carries its own orchestra, with much interest. The company, which is touring the principal cities of the United States and Canada, carries the new standard of refined vaudeville into new and brighter heights.

The note of sheer beauty is sustained by the famous Parisienne-American herself—beauty of face, form and action, beauty of adornment, of singing and of dainty miming. To establish values even in the interminable question of relative beauty, Miss Held is surrounded by a group of young women selected with a first appreciation of their physical and artistic excellence. The ingenuity of the greatest modistes of Paris was challenged in assembling Miss Held's wardrobe, and she comes out of the City of Delectable Vanity the most wonderfully attired woman of the decade.

Will Face Recorder Again.

Probable cause was found yesterday by Justice Harriss in a case against William Foy, colored, charged with selling whiskey, and he was sent to the Recorder for trial. His bond was fixed at $500 in default of which he was committed to jail. Justice Harriss in naming his bond stated that he fixed it at a large sum in view of the fact that Foy had shown a disposition to utterly disregard the law in that while he had two cases pending in the Recorder's court he had apparently continued to engage in the illegal sale of whiskey. "Honey" Gause, colored, who worked in Foy's place, was arrested also for selling whiskey, and in default of bond went to jail.

Enterprising Lumberton Merchant.

It is quite the usual thing for the city merchant to go to the county paper with his advertisement, but Mr. A. Weinstein, of Lumberton, one of the most progressive merchants of Robeson, is rather reversing the order and elsewhere in today's paper is an announcement of his Fall opening which is commended to the reading of the public and especially the large number of Star readers in Mr. Weinstein's territory. Mr. Weinstein located in Lumberton 15 years ago. By square dealing and strict business methods, he has built up a very large trade and now owns and occupies one of the handsomest business buildings in his town.

SUPERIOR COURT ADJOURNS

Term Came to an End Yesterday at Noon—Motions in Civil Matters Heard—Judge Rountree on Divorce.

Having finished all business of the two weeks' term in one week, Superior Court adjourned yesterday at noon. Judge Rountree stated that he had informed members of the bar that he could dispose of all the criminal matters on the docket in a few days and asked that they arrange a civil calendar. But the bar declined to arrange a calendar because the members thought that all the time would be taken up with the criminal cases, and now that the criminal matters were completed earlier than they thought he was not going to hear any civil cases beyond a few motions.

Ben J. Cottle, the young druggist, who was sentenced Thursday to 12 months on the roads for violating the prohibition law, was brought in yesterday to testify in a case against Bill Conner, colored, who was charged with breaking into Cottle's store at Eighth and Castle streets some weeks ago. The jury found the negro guilty and Judge Rountree gave him a sentence of 12 months on the roads. Thus he and the man whose store was robbed will find themselves working on the roads side by side. There will be one difference, however—Connor will be in stripes while Cottle will not, stripes being prohibited in a misdemeanor.

Edwin Fryar, a 14-year-old white youth, who submitted early in the week to store breaking, was sentenced to four years in jail with privilege to the County Commissioners to hire him out.

Nick Taylor, colored, was found guilty of larceny and was sentenced to one year on the roads. John Davis, colored, charged with violating the prohibition law, was discharged, a nol pros with leave being taken in his case. The case against Mr. M. D. Bright, proprietor of the Crescent Cigar Store, who is charged with gambling, was continued. It is alleged in the indictment that the defendant permits a certain kind of pool in his place in which the element of chance exceeds that of skill.

Judge Rountree has very pronounced views on the question [illegible] and he expressed them se[illegible] during the week. He had [illegible] express his views again yesterday. A few days ago a jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in an action brought by Turner vs. Turner for divorce. Judge Rountree stated yesterday that he would not sign the decree because the plaintiff under the evidence was not entitled to a divorce. He would not permit the retrial yesterday of the case of Mrs. Lilia Darling against Edward G. Darling, in which a mistrial was ordered Friday. The mistrial was ordered on the ground that the plaintiff, according to her own testimony, did not have knowledge of the facts set forth in the complaint for six months prior to the commencement of the action as is required by law. L. Clayton Grant, Esq., who appeared for the young woman, who is yet but little more than a girl, stated to the court yesterday that she knew of the facts for nearly a year prior to the institution of the suit and had merely gotten confused in her testimony due to nervousness and excitement at being in court. However, Judge Rountree would not listen to re-opening the case at this term. The purpose of the six months clause in the statute is in order to give the persons estranged time in which to effect a reconciliation, remarked Judge Rountree.

Judge Rountree stated that he would sign the decree in the case of Mrs. Lanie Bell Cowan against Sam Cowan, and also in the case of Frank Mills, colored, against Annie Mills.

The appeals of Messrs. J. W. Murchison and W. B. Cooper, tried in Recorder's court for violating the sign ordinance, were withdrawn. It was ordered that they pay any cost that has been incurred in Superior Court.

In the civil action of T. M. Byers, et al., against the Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company, an order was issued making W. L. Hill a party to the suit.

It was upon the recommendation of County Solicitor Peschau and W. P. Stacy, Esq., the latter representing the Good Government League, that nol pros with leave was taken in a number of cases at this term of court, it was stated by Judge Rountree from the bench yesterday morning. He thought it only fair to the court and to the solicitor to make this statement. It is supposed that he had reference to cases in which certain women of the underworld, were charged with vagrancy or keeping disorderly or bawdy houses, who have since left the city.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

James Andrews, Colored, Sentenced to Roads for Three Months.

James Andrews, colored, who caused considerable excitement at corner Front and Orange streets Friday night about 10 o'clock by interfering with Officer Jordan as he was arresting another negro, was given three months on the county roads yesterday by the Recorder. He filed notice of appeal, and his bond was fixed at $250. Officer Jordan arrested Roy Bowman, colored, when Andrews came up and attempted to force him to turn Bowman loose. He struck the officer once with his hand, and then ran.

When he got a few feet away he threw a brick at Officer Jordan. Louis J. Poisson, Esq., happened along about that time and Mr. Jordan turned Bowman over to him and other citizens and ran after Andrews. When he began throwing bricks Mr. Jordan shot in his direction three times not, however, with the intention of hitting him. Andrews then began running in earnest, and it was not until yesterday morning that Officers Jordan and Fulford found him at his home. He showed some disposition to resist their entering when they reached the house. His brother, John Andrews, was in the house and was arrested for resisting the officers, but was released by the Recorder as the evidence did not show that he had taken any part in aiding his brother.

Judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs in a case against H. Horowitz, charged with violating the city tax ordinance. A nol pros was taken in a case against Frank Piner, a young boy, charged with engaging in an affray with Charlie Cobb. Roy Bowman, colored, was fined $5 and the costs for being drunk.

Two cases against Willie Mack, colored, charged with carrying concealed weapons and with assaulting Geo. Williams, colored, with a deadly weapon Friday night, were continued. His bond was fixed at $150 in default of which he went to jail. A case against Mr. H. J. MacMillan, charged with violating the city tax ordinance, was continued until Monday.

RACKLEY-WILLIAMS WEDDING BEAUTIFUL HOME AFFAIR.

Oakland, the beautiful colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Columbus Williams, near Kenansville, was the scene of an impressive marriage ceremony Tuesday afternoon, September 9th, at 4:30 o'clock, when Miss Arline Gertrude Williams, their attractive daughter, became the bride of Mr. Walter A. Rackley, the ceremony being performed by Rev. W. P. M. Currie.

It was a green and white wedding and the colonial home was beautiful and picturesque with its decorations of bamboo ferns, Southern smilax and candles in sixteenth century style.

Under the deft touch of Miss Cannie Chasten the enchanting melody of Wagner's celebrated Lohengrin Wedding March floated softly as the bridal party approached the improvised altar in the following order: Mr. Luther W. Williams, Miss Nellie Rackley, little Miss Ruth Page, the ring-bearer with the ring in the heart of an aster; Miss Clyde Williams, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, followed by the bride carrying a pretty bouquet of asters and leaning on the arm of her father who gave her away. The groom with his brother, Mr. John E. Rackley as best man, had entered previously.

After the vows were said refreshments were served and in the evening a delightful reception was given at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rackley, complimentary to the bridal party. There were many beautiful and elegant presents displayed at the home of the bride's parents.

After October 1st Mr. and Mrs. Rackley will receive their friends at their new home at Fernside. They have a host of friends who wish for them many happy years of wedded life.

Just received—The newest styles in ready-to-wear white felt hats, splendid values at $1.00 and $1.50, at Rehder's Big Department Store.

Finale, "We've Had a Lovely Time, So-long, Good-bye," Leo Edwards.

HELD UP BY NEGROES.

Mr. I. W. Gore, of Delgado, Asked for Permit to Carry Pistol.

Because of having been held up twice by negroes on the county road, near Bradley's Creek, Mr. I. W. Gore, of Delgado, yesterday asked Sheriff Cowan for a permit to carry a pistol in order that he might protect himself from highway robbers. The sheriff informed him that he could not give him the right to carry a pistol but that he would see that he received protection. Mr. Gore is a fisherman, and leaves his home early in the morning. The negroes evidently thinking that he would have considerable money on his person made up their minds to get possession of it. The holdups occurred on Wednesday and Thursday mornings of last week, and fortunately Mr. Gore had very little money either time.

NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Will be Opened for Work One Week from Tomorrow—Exercises

General Secretary J. B. Huntington, of the Y. M. C. A., stated yesterday that Monday, Sept. 22nd, had been selected as the date on which the new association building will be opened. The formal opening will not occur until early in October, but the regular work of the institution will be taken up next week. The dormitories will also be open for roomers beginning next Monday. Already practically all the rooms in the building have been engaged.

Here After Long Absence.

Mr. W. H. Barclay, an old time printer, and a good one, too, was here yesterday on his way from Andalusia, Ala., where he is foreman of The Star newspaper, to Beaufort county, where he goes to visit his sister, whom he has not seen in 35 years. Mr. Barclay is a brother-in-law of Mr. W. B. Bevill, who lives near Winter Park. Mr. Barclay was pleased to meet in The Star office Mr. W. H. Lassell, the clever machinist operator in this shop, with whom he "stuck type" on the Savannah Morning News 26 years ago. This was before the linotype machine came into general use throughout the country. These old timers, who, however, have kept abreast of the times in the printers' art, were exceedingly glad to see each other again and many experiences of other days in the Savannah shop were recalled by them. Mr. Barclay will return to his Alabama home in about ten days.

Real Estate Transfers.

Deeds were filed for record yesterday as follows: A. H. Hunt and wife, to V. Sidbury, for $175 and other considerations, five acres on the Newbern road, adjoining lands of Reuben Everett, et al.; C. D. Weeks and wife, to V. Sidbury, for $100 and other considerations, lot on south side of Wooster streets, 101.8 east of Fourth street, 64x132 feet in size. The New Hanover Transit Co., to A. W. Middleton, for $100 and other considerations, lot 9 in block 4, Carolina Beach; A. K. Moore to A. M. Alderman and L. W. Alderman, for $100 and other considerations, lot on west side of Sixth street, 75 feet south of Nixon, 45x75 feet in size; A. S. Williams and wife, to William Struthers, Jr., for $100 and other considerations, lot on west side of Tenth street, 156 feet south of Queen, 31x165 feet in size.

On Tour of Inspection.

Maj. H. W. Stickle, in charge of the United States engineer office of this city, will leave tonight for a tour of the northern part of this district. Tomorrow afternoon he will hold a hearing at Enfield in Halifax county in regard to a proposed new bridge across Fishing Creek. Other points which he will visit are Tarboro, Washington, Bayboro, Morehead City and Cape Lookout. At Lookout he will inspect the new breakwater being built there. He will be away for a week or ten days.

Carrier Servico Discontinued.

Carrier service to Wrightsville Beach was discontinued yesterday by Postmaster Green and the mail boxes were collected and brought back to the city. During the Summer the beach is provided with carrier service from the Wilmington postoffice. Usually this service is discontinued about the 8th or 10th of September, but ran for a few days longer this year. There are only a few cottagers on the beach now.

A. & Y. Train Late.

Owing to delayed Southern connections, it was stated at the dispatcher's office, the Fayetteville train on the A. & Y. Railroad, due here at 8:05 o'clock last night, did not reach the city until about 1 o'clock this morning.

New Grocery Store.

Mr. H. O. Dixon, formerly with the Atlantic Coast Line, and Mr. W. A. Fonvielle, also an employe of the Coast Line, have formed a co-partnership under the firm name of Dixon-Fonvielle Co., and will conduct a cash grocery business at No. 408 Castle street. Their announcement will appear later.

Kryptok Lenses.

They combine two pairs in one. Two clear crystal lenses are fused into one—far vision at top—near vision at bottom. No seams. Come in and let us show you. Dr. Vineberg, the Eye Specialist, Masonic Temple. Eyes tested free. (advertisement)-1t

LOCAL DOTS.

—Sheriff Cowan has received notice from the State Treasurer that on October 13th Howes Great London Shows will exhibit in Wilmington.

—Ed Green, colored, was arrested this morning by Officers L. A. Justice and W. K. Rhodes for beating his wife. She was not seriously hurt. He was placed in the city prison to await trial Monday morning.

—A special meeting of the City Council has been called for Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock for the purpose of considering the question of laying laterals for sewerage and other matters relating to the sewerage question.

—Yesterday's Charlotte Observer: "The cow is now figuring in the 'continued in our next' health fight in the city of Wilmington. The City Council has ordained that cows can be kept within 10 feet of any residence and the County Board of Health steps up and says it shall not be done. It is almost as interesting as a hog fight in a cross roads town."

—At chambers yesterday afternoon Judge Rountree heard arguments of counsel in a case entitled Edwards against Mintz & Mintz, coming up on appeal from the Clerk of Superior Court of Brunswick county. It was with regard to a drainage district in Brunswick county at the head of Alligator swamp. C. Ed Taylor, Esq., of Southport, appears for the defendant, and Cranmer & Davis, of Southport, for the plaintiffs.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Dr. F. S. Brown, of Scott's Hill, was a visitor in the city yesterday.

MALARIA AND BATS.

Interesting Pamphlet Issued by Mr. Edward C. Bessellieu.

The Star has received a copy of the second edition of "Malaria and Bats", an interesting and remarkable brochure, of which Mr. Edward Cecil Bessellieu, of Wilmington, is author. Mr. Bessellieu, accepting the thoroughly established theory that malaria is communicated by mosquitoes, recognized that immunity from malaria depended upon protection from mosquitoes not only by screening, but also by destruction of the pests.

Several years ago, the author of "Malaria and Bats" accidentally discovered that the leather-winged bat was a ravenous destroyer of mosquitoes. Standing on the river bank he observed myriads of mosquitoes. Bats soon swooped down upon the insects and literally destroyed the brood. It was quick work, for the bat is nimble on the wing and unerring in its aim. The bats made way with mosquitoes so rapidly, that Mr. Bessellieu was impressed with their value as pest destroyers, and consequently as the friends of man.

"Malaria and Bats" was the outcome of his observations, and owing to its value in showing and proving the usefulness of the bat, he was induced to get out a second edition. It is a neat and readable little booklet, and is not only interestin to the lay reader but also appeals to the man of science.

The price of the booklet is ten cents, and can be had from all book stores or from the author.

Mr. Bessellieu some days ago sent to the entomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture a copy of the pamphlet. Under date of September 9th press dispatches from Washington announced the fact that the Agricultural Department had found that bats were of service in destroying mosquitoes and urged that they be protected. It is likely that the department will issue a bulletin on the subject soon.

Buys Front Street Property.

It was learned last night that Dr. Chas. T. Harper, proprietor of the Harper Sanitarium, had purchased the property at 517 South Front street, near the sanitarium. The lot is 33x165 feet in size. It is not known for what purpose he will use the property, but it is presumed that it will be used in connection with his santarium.

FORCED HEBREW TO EAT PORK.

Wake County Guard Made Him Eat It Till He Vowed He Loved It.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 13.—The trial of J. M. Nipper and Jim Johnson, convict guards and supervisors charged with assaulting convicts, will hardly be concluded before Monday or Tuesday. The feature of today's session of Superior Court was the admission of Nipper that he made Radfrey Jeffrey, a Hebrew, eat hog meat until the prisoner declared he loved it.

W. L. Wiggs, general road supervisor, and S. L. Lee, camp supervisor, were jointly indicted by the grand jury for not providing proper quarters for convicts at another camp and Lee was indicted on the charge of cruelty to animals.

Lawyers and others are watching this case with interest, as they believe the question of whether guards may punish convicts will be settled.

LARGE STEAMER TO NAVASSA

German Boat Woglinde, 400 Feet in Length, Largest Vessel to Reach Navassa Discharging Fertilizer Materials.

The largest and longest steamer that has ever made its way to Navassa was the German steamer Woglinde, Capt. Schuder, which is now discharging cargo of fertilizer materials at the plant of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company at Navassa. The steamer was piloted up the river Friday morning and attracted considerable attention en route and upon arrival at her destination.

Four hundred feet in length, with 50 foot beam, the Woglinde is the largest vessel by 10 feet that has ever attempted to navigate the Cape Fear river as far up as Navassa. She draws 19 1-2 feet of water, which is only six inches less than the minimum depth of the river.

In view of the many crooks and turns in the river from Wilmington to Navassa, the record of the Woglinde is considered remarkable. Mr. B. P. Strickland, the genial superintendent of the fertilizer plant, was not at all certain that the steamer could be gotten to Navassa and he was greatly pleased at the feat. Two tugs were used in piloting the vessel and they were under the direction of Capt. P. T. Dicksey, the well known tug boat captain of this city. It required the utmost carefulness on the part of the pilot to avoid accidents. His thorough and expert knowledge of the river was thoroughly demonstrated as many had said that it was impossible for the steamer to make the trip on account of the meanderings of the stream.

The boat was gotten to Navassa without a mishap of any kind. The draw in the new bridge at Navassa is 80 feet in width, which made it possible for the large boat to pass It is said that it would have been impossible for the boat to have gone beyond the bridge during the life of the old structure, on account of the narrow draw. The fact that the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company wanted to send the Woglinde to the plants on the Northeast branch of the Cape Fear above Hilton but could not on account of the narrow draw in the bridge, suggests the fact that in the not distant future a new bridge permitting of a wider draw will have to be constructed in order to keep abreast with the times and provide for the commerce on the river.

The Woglinde came from Bremen via Brunswick, Ga., and has cargo of 3,000 tons of fertilizer materials for the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company. Some 10 days will be required to discharge her cargo.

Capt. Schuder, who is a genial sea captain of many years of service and knows every point about navigation, stated yesterday that he will go from here to Savannah, Ga., for part cargo and thence to New York, where he will complete it. While he had not yet received his instructions on this point, he expects the cargo will be for Australia.

LIGHT HOUSES SUFFERED.

Service of Coast Guard System Crippled by the Recent Storm.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—Considerable damage was done to light houses and post lights along the North Carolina coast by the storm of a few days ago. The Bureau of Light Houses today received the following report from North Carolina:

"About 20 post lights, chiefly three-pile, horizontally-slatted, unwatched structures on the Pamlico, Pungo and Neuse rivers and Albemarle and Pamlico Sounds, were destroyed.

"Ocracoke light station at Ocracoke Inlet, Cape Lookout light station on the seacoast, Wade Point and Roanoke river light stations on Albemarle Sound and Southwest Point, Royall Shoal, Harbor Island bar, Brant Island Shoal, and Pamlico point light stations on Pamlico Sound, and Washington buoy depot at Washington, N. C., suffered damages of a varied character, such as wharves destroyed, doors and windows blown in, chimneys knocked down, roofs unshingled, outbuildings and wood piles washed away, etc.

"Light vessel No. 80, at Cape Lookout Shoal suffered some damage to her small boats and Light Vessel No. 71, at Diamond Shoal was dragged about three-fourths of a mile northwest of her station, but was able to return unaided after the storm.

STRONG BUYING IN COTTON IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE DEMAND FOR STOCKS UNABATED

Various Influences Combined to Encourage an Advance in Prices. Opening Was Steady at Unchanged Prices.

New York, Sept, 13.—The buying movement which developed in the cotton market yesterday afternoon was in evidence again during this morning's trading. Reports of too much rain in the Western and Central belts and Gulf storm apprehensions seemed to account for art of the demand, while the advance was also encouraged by reports of a better demand from the trade and the publication of bullish opinions by one of the large local spot cotton houses.

Offerings increased at an advance of a little over $2 from the low level of yesterday and the market reacted 8 or 9 points in the late trading, with the close barely steady at a net advance of 10 to 14 points. Houses with Liverpool connections were sellers on the late decline.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of nine points. The cables were about as due, but there were a good many overnight buying orders around the local ring and prices quickly sold 15 to 18 points net higher. Realizing became more of a factor at this level, while there was also selling for a reaction but after some little irregularity the advance continued until active months were 19 to 22 points above the closing figures of last night.

Reports that very heavy general rains had fallen in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana probably contributed to the early advance and private wires were received from some points in Arkansas claiming that damage had been done to open cotton. The weather bureau reported a disturbance just south of Porto Rico, and said that the disturbance noted for the past two days over Texas was working eastward with increased strength.

Spot cotton, steady. Middling uplands, 13.20; middling gulf, 13.45. No sales.

Futures closed barely steady.

Uncertainty Removed — Underlying Conditions in the Securities Market Show Improvement —Better Demand.

New York, Sept. 13.—Underlying conditions in the securities market improved this week. Passage of the tariff bill by the Senate removed uncertainty on that score. The drouth in the Southwest was broken and trade reports in many cases were cheerful. The investment demand was better. In the stock market after an uncertain and checkered movement early in the week, a comprehensive and active advance set in which developed to striking proportions in many cases.

The advance was fostered by various incidental developments. A number of these galvanized the market into sudden activity. An example was the rumor of an intended extra distribution to Union Pacific stockholders out of the proceeds of the Southern Pacific sale. Another such special factor was the assertion that wholesale purchases of steel cars by the rail companies would be forced by the New Haven disaster. This caused a flurry in the railroad equipment stocks. The movement in petroleum stocks was without any definite explanation.

The variety of these rumors pointed to their unauthentic origin and led to the supposition that the market's appearance of strength while influenced by betterment in fundamental conditions, was due largely to professional initiative.

The sag in prices preceding publication of the government crop report and the hardening afterwards was an example of how corn crop damage had been discounted in the previous action of the market. The figures even of the estimate had been accurately predicted. There was the further consideration that the brilliant promise of a bumper wheat crop offset the effect of the corn showing. Then there were reports of soaking rains in the recent drought district. The influence of the corn and cotton damage is modified by the large reserves from the preceding years' crops and by the high ruling prices.

Current consumption of steel products is maintained and the rate of decrease in new orders is lessening as shown by the United States Steel Corporation's statement of unfilled orders. The rise in iron prices shows the growth of demand already at work but the yielding of steel prices indicates that the process had not yet reached that department. The copper producers' report disclosed the smallest surplus of refined copper in years.

The seasonable movement of currency from the reserve centers to the agricultural interior threatens the supply a natural check to the speculative use of funds. Interior demands on New York for cash at this season usually run from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 and the movement has barely begun. Discount rates are hardening abroad, though the banking position there continues almost unprecedentedly strong.

Saturday's Market Unusually Broad and Active—Showing of Strength More Impressive Than in Previous Trading.

New York, Sept. 13.—Demand for stocks was unabated today and the week's upward movement continued in a spirited manner. It was an unusually broad and active market for Saturday. The showing of strength was more impressive than on earlier days of the rise for the market no longer was dependent upon the leadership of Union Pacific whose buoyant advance led to the general upturn. While Union Pacific continued to go forward, it was outstripped by other active shares.

Speculation in Reading was particularly lively and the four points' advance in that stock made it the chief feature for a time. Canadian Pacific bounded up over five points. Many other issues made upturns ranging from one to two points.

Various explanations of the rise were offered, touching on the improvement in some lines of business, the ending of suspense concerning crops and the tariff, and the supposed inclination of large speculative interests to initiate a bull campaign. The weekly reviews of trade were favorable pointg to a more optimistic disposition in many lines.

The bank statement threw little light on the monetary situation except to indicate that the expected drain in the interior had not set in.

Bonds steady. Total sales par value $880,000. United States 2s and 4s and Janama 2s and 3s declined 1-4 on the week. United States 3s advanced 1-4. Total sales were 394,300 shares including American Tobacco, 200; A. C. L., 200; C. & O., 2,700; Lehigh Valley, 6,300; L. & N., 100; N. & W., 400; Reading, 91,400; S. A. L., 100; S. A. WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW.

Wide Fluctuations Occurred in the Market During Past Week.

New Orleans, Sept. 13.—Wide fluctuations were brought about in the cotton market this week, upturns being caused by the more favorable news from Washington regarding legislation against future trading and the downward movements by the heavy rains in the western half of the belt, which effectually put an end to the drought and caused talk of a top crop. The net results were an advance of 33 to 38 points. The high prices were made on Tuesday and the low prices on Friday. At the highest the trading months were 62 to 65 points over last week's close, at the lowest they were 1 to 7 points over. The range was 57 to 61 points. The news from Washington was eagerly read by the trade and it was of a tenor to cause much buying, first and last. Early in the week the agreement that the proposed tax on futures, if passed, should not go into ecect for a year, was considered to be a very bullish feature. Later the market was again stimulated upward by the attempt to substitute market reforms for the tax measures. This attempt caused a steadier week-end than would otherwise have been seen.

Reports from Texas and Oklahoma, especially the former, were most encouraging, compared with what have been coming from that section of the belt for a long time past. These reports were at all times the source of much short selling, although ogset to some extent by the bullish claim that the rains were preventing picking and injuring the grade of cotton. In the spot demand, prices advanced 5-16c, middling closing at 12 15-16 against 12 5-8 last week and 11 7-16 last year. Sales on the spot amounted to 375 bales against 166 last week and 90 this week last year; sales to arrive totaled 5,012 against 920 last week, and 750 this week last year.

COTTON GOODS REVIEW.

Prices Have Shown a Steady Advance During the Past Week.

New York, Sept. 13.—Cotton goods markets have ruled strong for the week, and prices have advanced steadily. There was less trading on the last two days of the week, but no change in the market's tone was apparent.

There has been a large buying movement stimulated by the advance in cotton.

Prints advanced during the week and sales have been large. Sales of percales have been large. Some lines have been withdrawn and others advanced 1-4c a yard. Bleached cottons have been advanced to a basis of 8 3-4 for fruit-of-the-loom, and staple ginghams are up 1-4c a yard. Tickings, denims and heavy colored cottons are held firm. Print cloths have advanced 3-4 a yard on some wide constructions during the last four or five weeks. Hosiery and underwear have advanced and cotton yarns have been strong.

Prices rule as follows: Print cloths 28 inch 64x64s 3 3-4 nominal; 64x60s, 3 5-8; 38 1-2 inch 64x64s 3 5-8 and 5 1-2; brown sheetings, Southern standards 8; denims 9 ounce 14; tickings 8 ounce 13 1-4; staple prints standard 5 1-4; standard staple ginghams 6 1-2; dress ginghams 9 1-4.

TWO KILLED; SIX INJURED.

Trestle Collapses Under Southern Train Near Parrish, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 13.—Two men were killed and six seriously injured as a result of a trestle collapsing under a Southern Railway locomotive near Parrish, in Walker county, this afternoon.

The dead are Sam Bowers and Tom Woodie, both white, the latter a bridge foreman.

The most seriously injured are Engineer Redford and Hamp Fletcher. The others were negroes.

THE NAVAL STORES MARKET.

New York, Sept. 13.—Turpentine—Steady.

Rosin—Quiet.

Savannah, Sept. 13.—Turpentine, firm at 39; sales, 223; receipts, 783; shipments, 29; stocks, 35,241.

Rosin—Firm. Sales, 3,053; receipts, 2,574; shipments, 412; stocks, 173,668. Quote: A, B, C, D, E, G, H, and I, 3.80; K, 4.15; M, 4.50; N, 5.25; W G, 6.15; W W, 6.25.

CONDITIONS OF BANKS.

New York, Sept. 13.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $5,430,850 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $799,500 from last week.

INVESTIGATE COMPLAINT.

Government Interested in Charges of Shippers Against Carriers.

Washington, Sept. 13.—G. Carroll Todd, assistant to Attorney General McReynolds, today informed the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Baltimore, which recently charged the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Pennsylvania railroads and their allied water lines with violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, that the Department of Justice is conducting an investigation of the New Haven system and has asked the association for further information about the Pennsylvania.

Officials of the department say the essence of the complaint seems to be against the New Haven, which, with the Pennsylvania, is charged with suppressing competition between Boston, Providence, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Charges against the Pennsylvania dealt largely with water lines in Delaware, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Todd called the association's attention to the fact that Congress by the Panama Canal act, has extended the powers of the Inter-State Commerce Commission over water lineh controlled by railroads.

SOUTH GETTING FUNDS FAST.

Money to Move Crops is Being Sent Out Rapidly to Cotton States.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The Treasury Department has deposited up to date $11,000,000 of the $50,000,000 of government funds to assist in moving the crops. This amount has been placed in National banks of Washington, Baltimore and the South. The South, which is to receive a total of $25,000,000, wants the money at once and officials declare it is being distributed as fast as the banks comply with the regulations and present the required security. Western banks have indicated that they will not want their share of the deposits until the latter part of September and during October.

OFFICERS BOUND OVER.

Strikers Demand That Flag be Respected by Cavalrymen.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 13.—The six deputy sheriffs charged with the murder of strikers at Seeberville, near the Champion Mine, on August 5th, today were bound over to the circuit court for trial. They were admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000 each.

While cavalrymen were clearing the streets after a parade of strikers had been stopped this morning, a flag in the hands of a striker was torn from its fastening and trampled in the street. The strikers wired to Governor Ferris in protest, demanding more respect for the flag, and right to parade the streets.

NO MORE HOLIDAY FOR EDISON.

Great Inventor Worse Off from Vacation Than from Working

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 13.—Thomas Edison, who is ill at his home here, has been ordered by his physician never to take another vacation, and to remain away from his laboratory for another two weeks to recuperate from his recent fortnight in New England. This was Mr. Edison's first vacation in eight years and, according to the doctor, the ingenious inventor is more out from his holidays than he ever was from working 20 hours a day. It was said today that his condition was improved.

DID TWAIN INSPIRE 'EM?

Hannibal, Mo., Boys Use Tom Sawyer's Cave for Storage of Lot.

Hannibal, Mo., Sept. 13.—"Mark Twain's cave, south of Hannibal, where Tom Sawyer and his companions had their rendezvous, was the scene of the finding today of $4,000 worth of plunder, which five Hannibal boys confessed they had stolen. The boys told the police that, after robbing trains and residences across the river from here, they hid their loot in the woods and at night conveyed it across the river in a skiff. Seven thousand cigarettes were found in the cave made famous by "Mark Twain."

Just for Convenience

Entirely aside from the many other advantages of a personal Checking Account at the Bank, the convenience of it is no small consideration. The ability to make purchases and pay bills after banking hours without the necessity of always having a pocketful of money is worth a great deal. With a Check Book in your pocket, you are taking no risks of losing money and yet you always have all of your money on hand and ready for use. One is as liable to need money before ten in the morning or after three as between those hours. The Personal Check Book settles the matter.

SOCIAL SERVICE QUARTERLY

Review of Social Service Quarterly of North Carolina Conference. Bishop Strange's Address. Senator Owen's Ideas.

(By W. H. Swift.)

Recently, Volume 1, No. 2, of the Social Service Quarterly of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service has come from the press. It is one of the most interesting publications which has been issued in North Carolina in the year 1913. I do not know whether the supply is sufficient to furnish an unlimited number, but any one interested in social service matters will feel himself amply repaid for his $1 membership fee to the Social Service Conference, if this number can be had and will be read. The entire scope of social work is covered in this Quarterly.

The front page carries the challenge of the social service from the Southern Sociological Congress. In seven short paragraphs there is a challenge to all citizens, men and women, to service in the work of improving social conditions. It makes one's heart grow warm just to read this challenge.

The number carries three long articles, one by Bishop Strange, on the "Needed Improvement With Regard to Factory Child Labor"; one by Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, on "The Call to Social Service," and one by Gilbert T. Stephenson, of Winston-Salem, N. C., on "What Our College Faculties and Students Can Do in Social Service and Investigation." Each of these was delivered at the last meeting of the conference. Nor must we neglect Miss Daisy Denson's "A Call to Christian Women," given on pages 52 and 53 of the number.

There has probably never been made in North Carolina a clearer statement of the child labor problem than that given by Bishop Strange in this number. It was my good fortune to hear Bishop Strange at the conference, and I remember how, in his earnestness, he made his plea for the boys and girls of the State; but I find it both profitable and convincing to read again the argument which he so well advances for needed legislation in North Carolina. The figures which he offers and the entire argument is one which could not but be convincing.

While perhaps not all of our citizens would agree with Senator Owen, still it is a fact that we have ample proof in North Carolina that what he said is true. Poverty of one kind or another is the great cause of a great deal of our social wrongs.

Senator Owen argues that the cure for this evil, is the placing as far as possible all government directly in the hands of the people. This cure seems to have worked with great success in many of the Western States, and it may be that we shall find it not only wise, but necessary to make use of it in the good State of North Carolina. As Senator Owen well says, "the people have more sense than any representative that ever represented." Whether one agrees with Senator Owen or not, one should certainly take the time to make a study of the remedy which he furnishes.

Mr. Gilbert T. Stephenson, of Winston-Salem, is one of the few young men in our State who has invariably said the proper thing at the proper place. There is probably no other young man in the State who has gone so carefully into the different social problems as Mr. Stephenson. He speaks with enthusiasm of youth, but at the same time carries in his words the wisdom of age. If for no other reason, one should read what Mr. Stephenson has to say in order that he may be in at the beginning of the life work of one of the very strong men that is to be in our State.

Miss Denson has a way of going to the heart at once and all the Christian women should understand just what her call means.

Without mentioning the other articles, most of which are short, except to call special attention to Chairman Clarence Poe's discussion of the segregation of our negro population.

It is perhaps proper to say that the most interesting part of this No. 2 of the Social Service Quarterly is to be found on the first page under the title of "The Next Meeting". Those who have the directions of the Social Service Conference have very wisely decided that the best work is to be done through the regularly organized churches of our State. I remember that in a meeting of the committee it was the unanimous conviction that the different churches of North Carolina can do whatever is needed to be done in the way of social betterment. It was therefore decided to place the meeting in charge of the committee on church and social service, with Bishop Strange as chairman of this committee.

The committee hopes that every church in North Carolina will find it good to send out one delegate or delegates to this next meeting.

Just think what it would mean to have assembled in one meeting the regularly appointed representatives from every church in North Carolina? This would be the most powerful organization for good we could possibly assemble in the State. The mere fact that the church had selected a man or woman as a delegate would be absolute proof of the fact that he or she is a citizen of power for good in his own community. Let these different representatives meet together and lay plans for future work. There could be no limit to the good results which will naturally flow from such a meeting. In all social matters it is high time that there be perfect cooperation between the churches. This conference opens a road for such cooperation. Let us hope that in Christian love and brotherly helpfulness, all will take advantage of it.

W. H. SMITH.

TURKISH TOBACCO FIELDS.

Ownership of the Land Producing Finest Weed in World is Changing.

Vienna, Sept. 13.—The fields producing the best Turkish tobacco in the world, the kind that is sent to Constantinople for the consumption of the Sultan, and which is sold at the highest prices in the American market, are about to change ownership. For centuries they have belonged to Turkey; today the contest between Bulgaria and Greece for the final possession of the port of Kawalla, will decide their future owner.

In the rich country behind Kawalla grows the best tobacco in all the Turkish Empire. The finest quality comes from the mountain slopes, the crops raised in the plains being more remarkable for quantity than quality. The best of all comes from the left bank of the Karasu river, above Kanthi, and is renowned throughout the tobacco world under the name of Giubek. This is the product that brings the highest prices, both in Europe and the United States.

The industry at Kawalla has been built up by the Turks slowly and carefully, through many decades. Turks make the best tobacco growers in southeastern Europe, and the commercial success of whatever power finally becomes possessed of this rich tobacco district, be it Bulgaria or Greece, will depend largely on whether or not the present Turkish cultivators can be persuaded to stay and labor for their new masters.

The Greeks are not inclined to careful agriculture in the tobacco fields, and while the Bulgarians make good farmers, they have had comparatively little experience in tobacco growing.

The stores of Turkish tobacco on hand at the present time are so extensive, however, that it probably will be two or three years before smokers of real Turkish cigarettes will experience any shortage as a result of the Balkan war.

PRINCESS LOUISE IN COURT

Paris, Sept. 13.—Princess Louise of Belgium, the unfortunate daughter of the late King Leopold, is once more much written about in the Continental press, and the number of suits in which she is involved is increasing.

The last legal proceeding has been brought by Dr. Inhoffen, a German engineer, who represents that the Princess and her confidential friend, Count Mattachisch, have swindled him and a group of his friends out of $1,000,000. The Princess, he affirms, showed him what purported to be an autograph letter from the German Emperor, and that therefore he was willing to entrust his money to her. As the suit is being brought before an Austrian court it is quite likely that the princess will pay no attention to it, as she has again taken up her residence in Belgium.

Scarcely a fortnight ago the Princess lost a suit brought against her by Dr. Reich and was obliged to pay him $340,000 for an estate which she had arranged to buy in Austria and then changed her mind. Princess Louise, it is understood, will appeal personally to her cousin, King Albert, upon his return from his Summer vacation in Switzerland. She is described by her friends as extremely nervous and easily excited.

Aviator Pegoud's Work.

The remarkable recent aeroplane flights of Aviator Pegoud, in which he has twice turned complete circles in the air, flying for a time head down and then returning to his original upright position, have drawn attention to the previous exploits of this adventurous airman.

The possibility of "looping the loop" in an aeroplane became apparent as a result of Pegoud's sensational work some weeks ago with the Bonnet life saving parachute.

When Pegoud, some 300 feet above the earth, pulled the string of the parachute attached to his monoplane, allowing it to fill with wind and lift him from his seat to be deposited gently on a tree-top, the monoplane, traveling at great speed, dashed downward, but instead of crashing to the ground it turned a complete somersault and continued its flight alone. Some distance away it came to earth upright on its wheels, practically undamaged.

Describing his experience Pegoud said: "It was an extraordinary sensation, and really very agreeable." When asked about the possibility of looping the loop in an aeroplane he replied: "You see it is possible; one day I shall try it."

The parachute invented by M. Bonnet is being examined by the French military authorities with a view to its adoption. M. Bonnet declares he hopes to perfect another and larger parachute which will save not only the pilot of an aeroplane but the aeroplane as well.

Anarchists in Paris.

The organization of anarchy in France on a practical basis is the principal result of the Anarchist Congress that has just finished its sittings in Paris.

Several hundred anarchists from every division of France took part in the congress over which M. Aubin presided. Among the noteworthy decisions was that it is not the business of anarchy to aspire to political power, "since anarchy's aim is destruction." A violent quarrel arose between the communistic and individualistic anarchists, so that for a time it appeared that the congress would come to no conclusions whatever. The individualists were in a minority and they were finally excommunicated by the communists, who continued the congress alone. They adopted these principles:

1. Antiparliamentarianism.
2. Antimilitarism.
3. Syndicalism, provisionally, pending the attainment of absolute freedom by revolution.
4. The necessity of preparing for this revolution by short, violent strikes.
5. All the means of production should be held in common, but how this shall be obtained is a subject for future inquiry.

Based upon these principles an elaborate plan was adopted for organizing sectional anarchist societies throughout the country.

Anarchists affirm that the present congress is a far step in the evolution of their doctrines, and that anarchism has ceased to be a romantic individualist aspiration in France.

French and U. S. Tariff.

The Comite France-Amerique, which under the presidency of Gabriel Hanotaux, devotes itself to advancing the intellectual and political good will between the French and American peoples, has taken note of an amendment to the Underwood bill, offered in the Senate to impose a duty of 15 per cent on the value of "books and pamphlets chiefly in a language other than English."

As a result considerable adverse comment has appeared in French newspapers on what is called a measure that would hinder free trade in ideas. The American Chamber of Commerce in Paris, through its president, B. J. Shoninger, has written to President Wilson saying this proposed tariff would arouse the hostility of authors and publicists, and through them a widespread sentiment of prejudice against the United States. Mr. Shoninger represents that a tariff on foreign books in the United States would do much to "render fruitless the recent efforts of universities and other public bodies to promote the exchange of ideas between the United States and Europe, and injure the best interests of technical and general education, "without protecting American industry, because books printed in foreign languages are not in competition with any American product.

The Chamber of Commerce fears the amendment would expose the United States to reprisals affecting American commerce abroad.

MOSQUITO IN THE NORTH.

Protects Birds During Nesting Season More Than Game Laws Do.

(From the Toronto Globe.)

In the North the mosquito reigns supreme. The swarms that rise from streams, lakes, and marshes, as each comes to the surface and emerges, dry, from the skin he wore when a wiggler in the water, cannot be checked or resisted. Though weakly blown aside by the wind or driven off by smoke, they triumph by the force of numbers.

There is compensation for their virulent annoyance, and even for their transmission of the germs of malaria, compensations more important than the feeding of trout and bass fry. They protect our feathered game during the nesting season and insure immunity to the flocks of migrants that rear their broods in the Northern woods.

The egg collector, the skin collector, and all the inquisitive, curious, and destructive who would otherwise invade the woods and marshes during the nesting season are warned off by that ominous and persistent hum. It is more effective than all the game preserving and bird-protecting statutes. It insures safety during that helpless time when the mother bird can only flutter along the ground in paralyzed terror, drawing the invader away from her treasured but helpless offspring.

While the mosquito reigns supreme, the bird life that ranges the continent will nest unmolested in its varied Northern retreats.

Restored to look as it did in 1782, the old birthplace of Daniel Webster, at Franklin, N. H., will be the scene of a celebration in honor of the expounder of the Constitution, on August 28th. The date has no particular significance, but marks the completion of the work of rehabilitating the old house.

Out-of-Town Population of 200,000 Enriches New York City Yearly Almost to Extent of National Revenue.

New York, Sept. 13.—Out-of-town visitors are contributing to the wealth of New York at the rate of more than $2,000,000 a day, or the enormous sum of three-quarters of a billion dollars a year. These are the remarkable figures which have just been compiled as the result of a special investigation here. The daily population of out-of-town visitors is now over 200,000, or about equal to the population of St. Paul or Denver. The average expenditure foots up to about $10 each per day. Their dinners cost $520,000. Their hotel or boarding house rooms with breakfast and luncheon cost $800,000. They are spending $320,000 in the shops for clothes, furniture, jewelry, antiques and novelties, $200,000 in the theatres; $280,000 on water trips, beach excursions, baths and other amusements. New York, according to these latest figures, in its capacity to accommodate strangers, beats Chicago 15 to 1; Boston 25 to 1; Philadelphia 35 to 1; and Cincinnati 100 to 1. The city now has 700 hotels with more than 50,000 rooms, about 40,000 of which are available for transients. On a basis of two in a room the number of visitors becomes 80,000. More than half as many find accommodations in boarding houses. The others are the visitors for the day who depart before night. In the matter of steamship arrivals in this port the latest figures are representative. During the year 2,068 passenger vessels arrived in port, besides 1,680 freight steamships and 4,480 sailing vessels, many carrying passengers. There disembarked from passenger ships 1,102,945 persons, that is to say 126 each hour or more than two passengers a minute. No other city in the world, it is pointed out, approaches this record for visiting population and its enormous expenditures.

less than 39 lobsters, averaging over a pound each, not to mention the necessary accompaniment of bread, salads, conpliments and many quarts of beer to wash it all down. That this was merely a 'light lunch' for Granger is evident from his after-remark that he could have taken equally good care of 39 more lobsters had it been necessary in order to distance his competitor. On a former occasion Granger is credited with devouring 15 pound bluefish along with nine large potatoes, two loaves of bread and six green peppers, washed down by ten bottles of beer. On both these occasions the previous record of 16 pounds of beefsteak was apparently eclipsed not only as to actual weight but even more so as to volume. A city alderman characterized as merely an appetizer the ten and a half pound steak and 14 cups of coffee which he recently consumed before dinner, but in the absence of dinner figures Granger seems to have a clear title to being New York's heartiest eater.

The hard times in the "wildcatters' row" grows harder in spite of the upturn in stocks, for speculative New York is awakening to the grim realization that Americans slowly but surely are becoming investors instead of gamblers. With the Postoffice Department keeping the lid clamped down tight upon their operations the vendors of flambuoyant shares in mining, oil or patent enterprises find the going heavy and getting heavier. The letters to them from some of the leaders of the wildcatting craft do not offer encouragement to take foolhardy chances, for they come from behind steel bars. The report of the Postoffice Department that not less than three or four hundred million dollars a year had been the price paid by the public for crediting the stories of astounding profits which might be made in the wildcat issues has quite effectually squelched the operations of the unscrupulous tribe. The distinct tendency to sound investments was first observed in the West, but the corporations, or some of them, were prompt to adopt the idea of cutting up their bond issues into denominations of $100 and $500 as well as the traditional $1,000. This reduction in the minimum size of bonds has brought into usefulness the hundreds of millions in savings funds which the wildcatter had preyed upon. People have become coupon clippers who never hoped to have enough "saved up" at one time to buy a $1,000 bond. A good many millions of the big bond issues have been taken in this way by small investors although the activity of building shows that the Straus plan of dividing up large first mortgages on skyscrapers and apartment houses, considered the highest class of improved city real estate, has enlisted a great share of the people's money in real estate mortgages. The use of a big aggregate of small sums to finance big operations was accomplished in many cases by the device of bond issues of small denominations which were secured by big mortgages, the bond maturing serially and bearing 5 1-2 and 6 per cent interest. The high cost of living had required higher rates of income than had ruled and the real estate bond was the idea of a banker, S. W. Straus, with altruistic views, who spent 25 years in the quest for a form of security which would prove a substitute for the wildcat stocks and still be secure.

Another of the few remaining ties between the old and the new of New York City, and incidentally the oldest building in the financial district, about to make way for a more roomy and otherwise up-to-date structure, is the old United States Assay Omce at Broad and Wall streets. Though a dingy gray old building of only two stories, its lines are beautiful, for it is built in a simple yet effective Grecian style with ionic columns and a facade regarded as one of the most beautiful pieces of Grecian architecture in the United States. It was built ninety years ago by the United States Bank, which was driven out of existence by President Jackson in 1836, when the building was sold to the Bank of the State of New York, from which the United States government acquired it in 1854. The average citizen is scarcely acquainted with the functions of the assay office. Thither goes the miner with his pay dirt for assay, for which he receives his gold notes or silver bars at a nominal cost to cover the running expense of the office. For gold bars to be shipped abroad, bankers go to the assay office, whose weighing and testing are so accurately done that they rely more upon its experts than upon their own. There also are taken for testing of assay and weighs the gold bars imported. Neither our government nor our bankers are willing to accept without such tests the gold bricks bearing the imprints of other governments. From this office manufacturing jewelers procure gold bars, which may be as small in value as $100, though the shipping bar is valued at $8,000. Here also are brought old pieces of jewelry, plate and ornaments, not only by jewelers, but by individuals, who wish to turn the same into cash. Many are the crude ingots, into which burglars have converted their loot to avoid identification, that have found their way to the assay office. By no means the least interesting callers there were the many victims of the 'gold brick' fad of 20 to 30 years ago.

New methods of schooling appointees to Gotham's police force are now being instituted. The latest batch of 500 men to be sworn in are now under the tutelage of Capt. Herman J. Kaehler, instructor of military gymnastics and physical culture and master of the sword at the West Point Military Academy. The captain has been borrowed for a month to work out and put into effect a course whereby officers shall be taught and drilled in proper physical poise, which means virtually the relegation of the prevailing "private corporation" in favor of the "straight front" effect, which has already become popular, wherever attainable, in feminine fashions. Another feature of the new training system is special instruction in the humane handling of prisoners, in which connection particular attention is given to Americanized jiu jitsu methods of subjugating resisting prisoners without seriously injuring them. Pistol practice, of course, is by no means neglected, and there is a mental schedule including 30 subjects, each comprehending 50 topics. One of the most important, because flagrantly needed, is the proper manner of arraigning prisoners.

JUDGE BENNETT'S WILL.

Unique Paper by North Carolina's Most Unique Citizen

Following is the will and last testament of the late Judge Risden Tyler Bennett, of Anson county, than whom the State had no more unique citizen or original genius.

"I yearn to express my deep sympathy with all animate nature. Hence my children and grandchildren are persuaded to keep in their integrity the haunts of birds of the air and fields, not to fell the trees of original growth but keep them as tired nature's sweet restorer. I am so devout in this that I put it in the forefront of my devotion to the universe and to my Creator.

"I give, devise and bequeath my estate and property of every sort and kind to my children share and share alike, enjoining it upon them and charging upon the estate a reasonable annuity to be paid yearly to my wife. She has an estate of great value but it is not of liquid assets but is her very own.

"My daughters are now named to execute this will and are clothed with power to sell privately.

"I wish my graveyard denominated 'Magnolia Summit' to be kept in perfect condition—adorned with flowers. Let the supply of roses be prodigal.

"I have had but one great sorrow. The Fall of the Confederacy. If our people had been true to it through and through we would have conquered our secession and left to future ages a government as chivalrous as the Crusades—Intolerant of hypocrisy in which men of Religion carried the banner of the brave.

"I recoil from the future of this government gauged as it is to low water, to violence and the domineering over land and sea.

"I take back all testaments made and stand by this as my last and best.

"Witness my hand and seal, May 29th, 1908.

"If I should fail to put in order a written expression of my determination to convey some of my father's home place to my beloved brother, Wm. O. Bennett—

"These are to command my executors to convey to him eight (8) acres of said contract, situate and being on the right hand side of the Concord road as you go north thereon from our capital town toward Concord: Beginning some 200 yards from the cultivated land in the middle of said new road and runs then as straight as practicable to the line betwixt David Bennett and myself, about the colored graveyard; thence with that line northerly; then back to the New road; then to the beginning, so as to make an area of eight (8) acres.

"The easement of the public in said road is reserved.

"My dear brother is to have access to the Allen Spring to quench thirst in its waters, to enjoy it as he likes.

"All of this in consideration of his company and a broom corn, the receipt of which is acknowledged.

A new light, visible 13 miles, light four seconds, dark one second, commencing July 16, 1913, will hereafter be displayed at the west point of the island of Curacao, West Indies. It will be of great service to shipping, especially to the American steamships Caracas and Philadelphia, which approach that point in the night from San Juan, Porto Rico, and owing to the uncertain current have often lost much time in picking up the island, being sometimes 10 to 20 miles away from reckoning.

Famed for its unfailing springs of pure, sparkling water, the island of Toboga lies about 10 miles from the city of Panama, in the Pacific. Here the mail steamers plying between Balboa and San Francisco lie by for their supply of fresh water, as do also the steamers that sail southword from Panama.

GERMAN ARMY REQUIREMENTS

Under the New Military Law the Empire is Calling for 100,000 Citizens Annually to Serve Under the Colors.

Berlin, Germany, Sept. 13.—Under the new military laws Germany is today calling on over a hundred thousand more of her sons each year to serve in the army. The new regulations, however, create conditions under which German subjects living abroad may escape military service entirely, and in this regard they are of interest to Germans living in the United States.

The laws provide that German subjects who have obtained permission to postpone their military service on account of residence abroad and who have acquired a permanent position there, may, upon application to the proper authorities, be excused entirely from active service and transferred to the "landsturm," or militia, which is called upon only in time of actual invasion. The exemption is granted only on condition that entering the army would jeopardize either the position or invested capital of the emigrant, and that there is reason to believe that the applicant is not trying deliberately to evade military service.

Officers or officials living abroad may now be granted leave for two years and excused from returning for the usual military duties, subject only to the obligation of returning in case of a general mobilization, and this leave may be extended indefinitely upon presentation of consular certificate that the applicant has a permanent position as merchant, business manager, etc. The officer whose life work is found in America or another country outside of Europe and the Mediterranean lands, may even be excused from returning upon mobilization, though of course it is almost inconceivable to think of a German officer taking advantage of this in case of war.

Tax on Bachelors.

American statesmen who would like to manipulate the new income tax law to bear harder on the bachelor than the married man, may take warning from the experience of the little principality of Reuss, where the first bachelor tax in Germany was introduced this year.

The tax has been in effect only since April 1, but the Reuss newspapers declare that bachelors of property are transferring themselves and their wealth to other parts of the empire, where the state of single blessedness is not subject to special taxation One bachelor of Griez, capital of the principality, has given further evidence of his displeasure by revoking a bequest of $12,500, which he had introduced in his will for a municipal bath-house in Griez.

German Embassy at Washington.

Participation in the open architectural competition to select designs for the proposed German embassy building in Washington, is extraordinarily heavy, no less than 263 sets of plans having been submitted. The work of the committee of selection, which includes Prof. Peter Behrens, and other prominent architects; Count Bernstorff, German ambassador at Washington, and Herr von Jabow, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will, therefore, be equally arduous.

The building is to cost about $500,000, though this limit will probably be exceeded on account of the increased expense of building. Among the competing architects is one American, who had earlier finished sketches for an embassy building and was, therefore, especially invited to participate in this competition.

"Germans" Starve in Holland.

Thousands of German emigrants died of starvation in Holland this Summer, whither they had gone in search of food. The victims were not persons, however, but bees, of which the bee-keepers of Westphalia and the Rhine districts take thousands of hives across the frontier every Summer to the great Peel heath, which in Summer is covered with masses of wild flowers. Special trains are employed to facilitate the transit of the honey-makers. This year, however, the flowers bloomed later than usual, and many of the bees starved, so that honey will be scarce and dear in Germany this Winter.

What is described as the largest railway bridge in central Japan has just been completed at Tenryugawa; it is about 36,000 feet long, and has been constructed entirely of Japanese materials at a cost of about $375,000.

GOODBYE DANDRUFF

What a delight to have a beautiful head of hair, fluffy, lustrous, abundant and free from dandruff.

If your hair is not as soft and beautiful, or as fresh and full as that of some friend whose hair you admire, don't give up and think you can't help it.

Do what she does—take care of your hair. It needs daily attention just as much as your plants need watering.

If your hair is too thin, make it grow like any other plant. If it is too dry and brittle soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshen up the scalp and dandruff will go.

Parisian Sage, sold in fifty cent bottles at druggists and toilet counters, is just what you need to make your scalp healthy and immediately remove dandruff—your hair wavy, lustrous and abundant.

Parisian Sage stops itching head; cleanses the hair of dust and excessive oil; takes away the dryness and brittleness; makes it seem twice as abundant, and beautifies it until it is soft and lustrous.

You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage. Always sold on money back if not satisfied plan. Look for the "Girl with Auburn Hair" on the package. Recommended and sold by Robt. R. Bellamy.

Kill the Fly and Save the Child

With SHEPARD'S House Fly Driver and Insect Exterminator.

The National Government and Dr. Murray, a Celebrated Physician and Superintendent of Health, of Washington, D. C., ENDORSE IT:

On August 29th I witnessed a demonstration of Shepard's Fly Driver and found that in a confined space this preparation did kill flies. About 300 flies were liberated in a room 12x20 feet and fumes from a bottle of Shepard's Fly Driver were blown with the air of the room. Within a space of one-quarter of an hour all the flies in the room had been killed by the fumes.

The fumes from this preparation produced no ill effects upon the four persons present in the room during the demonstration, and except for an odor of pine tar the fumes are not unpleasant.

(Signed) A. L. MURRAY, M. D.,
Supt. Health, Washington, D. C.

As one of the persons present when the above demonstration was conducted, I take pleasure in substantiating the information contained therein.

(Signed) C. H. POPENOE, Insect Investigator,

It kills the Mosquitoes, like the Flies, and is also Sure Death to Fleas, Moths, Ants, Roaches, and All Oother Insects.

THEATRICAL

Tuesday night, Sept. 16th—"The Confession."
Saturday, matinee and night, Sept. 20th—"Little Boy Blue."
Monday night, Sept. 22nd—Al G. Field's Greater Minstrels.

The Academy of Music will this week open up its real season and will during the week also inaugurate its season of musical comedy, presenting as the very initial number of this class of popular attractions a notable Henry W. Savage show, "Little Boy Blue," and with Otis Harlan as the topliner. Think of that and yet that's not all, because two performances of this superb attraction will be given at the Academy, the date being Saturday (of this week) for matinee and night. Closely following this brilliant show, with its own superb orchestra, will come the annual visit of the Al G. Field's Greater Minstrels, booked for one week from tomorrow night, Monday, September 22nd.

But the first splendid attraction of this week will come Tuesday night, when a New York company will be seen in the great New York success, "The Confession," and seats for this attraction will go on sale at Plummer's tomorrow morning.

"The Confession."

"The Confession," which will appear at the Academy Tuesday night is a different play, a wonderful play with a purpose, a play to bring out the finer feelings of mankind. It is not like the ordinary drama built around a faction fabric of a topic ordinary, with no purpose other than mere entertainment. "The Confession" is deep, stirring, inspiring, daring.

The story though easy of synoptical presentation, is deep and complex, demanding intricate development, to build a suitable foundation for a play structure that is to leave a lasting impression.

The scenes are laid in a quaint fishing town of Gloucester, Mass. Rev. J. J. Bartlett, a parish priest, has taken the parish of the Church of Our Lady of Mercy. With his mother, brother and a little hunch-back boy, they settle down in their little home. Dose Creighton, sweetheart of Tom Bartlett, the brother, endeavors to show the young man his wrong doings in drinking, but he becomes stubborn and leaves the parish in anger.

During the height of a severe electrical storm Joseph Dumont, a French Canadian, bursts in the door through the blinding flashes of lightning and begs the priest for absolution. The man confesses he slew the brother of Tom's sweetheart, while in a temper, for taking his sister away to the States.

The Canadian is not more than out of sight, when Tom staggers into the parish, drenched with rain and tells his brother he is accused of the crime. Father Bartlett, laboring under the strain, tries to keep the news of the tragedy from his mother and Rose. A detective enters the house and is about to place Tom under arrest, when the awful news is given to them.

Mr. Richard Sterling, who is portraying the character of the Rev. J. J. Bartlett, is giving an excellent portrayal of this sublime character.

Mr. Bowd Turner, as the French Canadian, is being commended upon nightly characterization of this difficult role. Mr. Turner was prominent in "Kismet" with Ottis Skinner.

Brilliant Musical Comedy Success.

The Academy Saturday of this week, matinee and night, will have as its attraction, "Little Boy Blue," the joyous operetta produced and presented by Harry W. Savage. "Litttle Boy Blue" proved a success of sensational dimensions in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia. Originally produced in Europe under the title of "Lord Picolo," it was witnessed by Mr. Savage on one of his trips abroad, and secured by him with the belief that it would prove in this country, a worthy successor to "The Merry Widow." It has done so. The book is by Rudolph Schanzer and Carl Lindau with music by Henri Bereny. Its adaptation for America was entrusted to A. E. Thomas and Edward Paulton, who gave it the title of "Little Boy Blue" from the fact that the famous Gainsborough painting "Boy Blue" figures in the development of the story.

The scenes of the first act of the operetta take place in a famous Parisian cafe, and those of the second in the Highlands of Scotland; it partakes of the atmosphere of both localities and is so bright and sparkling that it appeals to all classes of theatre-goers. The story concerns the adventures of a wisp of a girl who masquerades as a boy, impersonating her brother in order to save certain ancestral estates. She has another motive, but it is part of the double love story. Of course, she gets into many difficulties, but at the right moment the real heir appears and the tangled skein is unravelled.

The company is headed by Otis Harlan, and includes good looking boys and pretty girls who form the singing and dancing chorus, the latter being especially attractive when they appear in regulation Scotch kilts with bare knees. The music of "Little Boy Blue" is mostly Vienesse in character, but there are several interpolated numbers and in one of the scenes a medley of those rare old melodic Scotch airs is introduced with soul-stirring affect.

The Minstrels of the Nations.

The spectacular opening scene of the Al G. Field Greater Minstrels represent an encampment of soldiers in Panama, officers of various degrees from the military forces of the world that have assembled at Panama for the opening of the big canal, are supposed to be entertained by Uncle Sam's boys. A minstrel performance is the entertainment selected. They are taken up with the American minstrels, the syncopated songs and nimble dancers appeal to the soldiers from foreign shores. They catch the inspiration of the Americans and enter into the festivities with all the zest imaginable. Songs of all nations are sung—those of our own land predominating. The mingling of the flags of all nations would do the heart of as great a peace lover as our own William Jennings Bryan good, while the patriotic climax while Old Glory waives is inspiring.

The Grand's Monday Bill.

The Grand enjoyed a huge Saturday yesterday, in point of attendance, and, of course, the large audiences were delighted with the Grand's big and swell show. Tomorrow the Grand has a superb bill with which to start off the new week and will offer it up in its usual faultless manner. The films are all good, and the very latest, while the music is of the newest and most popular brand. g Edison's bi dramatic, "Flood Tide," will head the list. Several spectacular rescues from the mighty deep mark the story with especial force. "Into the Light" is a great problem story, that is one of the best dramatics ever manufactured. It is the story of a department girl worker and her temptations. It is decidedly wholesome, and has a big moral. In In Pathe's "Grand Canyon of New York-Ausable Canyon" will be found one of the biggest and most inspiring scehic films, as well as most instructive. "With the Native of New Zealand" is another fine educational film on tomorrow.

The Bijou's Bill.

The popular Bijou will start its new week off tomorrow with an outburst of fun such as has never been known in these parts before. Tomorrow will be known as "Smile Day," because the films to be presented are all of sunshine and will tickle every rib. The merry bunch of photoplays will be lead on the joy ride by Lubin's best, "Her Husband's Wife," in which that exceedingly clever young actor, Mr. Arthur Johnston, will appear as the husband. "David Boone" is trying to help a poor young woman in distress and runs up against his aunt, and has to introduce the young woman as his wife, the aunt takes a liking to her, insists on her going to her home, the real wife appears and there are tremendous laughs for the onlooker. Another big laugh-producer for tomorrow is Pathe's "Stung," telling the troubles of an inn keeper, a landlord, a policeman and a tramp. The hobo is a geneuine laugh-maker and the film is a howl. There is also Pathe's latest Weekly on tomorrow, which ends with a swell "Mutt and Jeff" scene.

LUMBERTON-ROBESON NEWS

Two Weeks' Court Practically Cleaned Up All Available Cases—Another Court Convenes the 29th—Personal News.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Sept. 13.—The two weeks' term of Robeson Superior Court adjourned Thursday afternoon, everything being disposed of that could be at this term. Three days of the first week of the term were consumed in the trial of the Scotland county murder case, leaving three days for the disposal of the county criminal docket which was easily done.

Many cases have been eliminated from the civil docket, but of course, there are always a number of these cases that have to be continued either by one or the other side. The crowd attending court was composed entirely of those who had business with the court. The time has passed when great crowds gather in town just because it is "court week." Another two weeks will convene September 29th, during which time Judge Lyon proposes to clear off the civil docket, in other words "the roots and snags" are to be removed.

The Lumberton graded school opened Tuesday with an enrollment of 351 students which was the greatest number ever present on an opening day and they are still coming in so that if the 400 mark has not yet been reached it soon will be, and passed.

A colored woman who had been confined in jail for several days on account of her mental condition, was carried to the asylum at Goldsboro Tuesday. When she was going she said, "I had better be gwine to de cotting field." Sensible remark from an insane person.

It is generally conceded here that the week just closing has been one of the dullest of the year. The weather has been ideal and country people are busy gathering crops. Cotton is reported to be opening rapidly and great efforts are being made to pick it before it could be damaged by any bad weather that might come.

The Seaboard is advertising an excursion to Jacksonville, Fla., to be run on the 23rd. The round trip fare from Lumberton will be $7.50, while parties wishing to go on to Tampa can buy the round trip for $9.50. It is expected that a great number will go from this section.

Mr. S. E. Britt, owner of the old company mill near Barker's church has notified the public that the water will be drawn from the pond on the 23rd, 24th and 25th for the purpose of doing some repair work. Those who wish to fish on the days mentioned can do so. The pond has not been drawn off in several years and fish are plenty.

Mr. Lloyd C. Townsend is preparing to erect a two-story residence on North Chastnut street which he expects to occupy by the new year. We hear complaint among the contractors about their inability to secure building material as rapidly as they need it though two or three mills are running near by.

Mr. O. C. Deese has moved into his new brick sales stables on Fourth street, between Elm and Water. Lumberton certainly is well supplied with livestock dealers and they all seem to do a good business. Two or three car loads of mules and horses have already arrived for the Fall trade.

From Mr. R. S. Bond, who was in town Thursday, we learn that he did not have any insurance on the house owned by him and occupied by Mr. Lide Williams and family which was badly damaged by fire Monday night. We do not know if he will rebuild.

Miss Amelia Linkhaur, manager of the millinery department of Messrs. R. D. Caldwell & Sons big department store, has returned from the Northern markets this week.

Miss Jean Pratt, of Hendersonville, who has been with Miss Josephine Breece, who conducts a millinery store on Elm street between Third and Fourth, returned from her home the first of the week and will be with Miss Breece again this season.

Two circuses are booked for this place next month, Howe's Great London Shows on the 16th, and Downie & Wheeler on the 18th. It is not probable that they will both come as they are too near together. The first one due has 18 cars, while the other has only nine. "First came first served."

There has been an exhibition for several days at the store of the McAllister Hardware Co., a 14-foot stalk of Georgia ribbon cane which was grown on Mr. J. A. McAllister's farm four miles south of town. He has an acre planted in the cane and if the stalk is a fair sample, he can surely "raise cane."

Some time ago the county commissioners ordered that the town should not use the jail for municipal prisoners. A friendly test case was made when a negro was arrested by the police and ordered to jail. The sheriff refused to admit the prisoner on a commitment from the Recorder. The matter was heard this week before Judge Lyon who issued a mandamus ordering the sheriff to accept the prisoner, so hereafter that officer must accept all prisoners presented to him on commitment from the Recorder. There is no law requiring a sheriff to accept prisoners without a commitment from some judicial officer. Hence, if a prisoner is arrested at midnight or at other times when it is not convenient to obtain a commitment, he must be placed in the guard house instead, or held until a commitment can be obtained from the Recorder.

The theatrical season wil open here Monday the 22nd, at which time the Lester-Miller players will begin a week's engagement. This attraction will pay its first visit to Lumberton. It is highly recommended. The first one night show will be Mutt and Jeff, October 3rd. People are already wanting to engage seats for this.

The road law passed by the last Legislature requires four days work from every able-bodied man between the ages of 21 and 45 except ministers and military men, or else the payment of 50 cents a day for the four days. No matter how much tax a man may be paying already for roads, he must work out these four days or pay $2.

For years past we have heard thousands of rice birds passing over at night on their way to the rice fields, but this season there have been remarkable few passing. If the decrease continues as it has this season, the rice bird will soon be a thing of the past.

Mr. R. M. Norment, formerly of The Star, left last Sunday for Columbia, S. C., to take a position on the Columbia Record, an afternoon paper in the South Carolina capital.——Rev. M. L. Kesler, manager of the Thomasville Baptist orphanage, will preach in the Baptist church here tomorrow morning and evening.——Mr. John Boylin who spends most of his time with his grandparents at Lilesville, is spending a few days in town with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Boylin.——Mrs. Jessie Wishart and children will move into the house at present occupied by Mr. Groom on Fourth street, and Mr. McDonald, who is moving from Wilmington, will occupy the place Mrs. Wishart is leaving.——Among the visitors in Lumberton this week was Mr. J. R. Inman, of Lyons, Ga., Mr. Inman was at one time engaged in business here, but moved away 25 years ago.

For once in the history of Lumberton the town has gone through an unusually hot Summer without the cry of no ice being heard. Mr. Howard Morrison, who supplies the trade has had the good luck not to get out of the cool commodity during the entire season, though he sold more than ever.

Mr. Winfred Whaley left for the mountains several days ago, this being his third visit during the season. He has been suffering from some heart trouble and the mountain air seems to give him more relief than any treatment he has tried. His many friends hope he may soon be restored to usual good health.

Mrs. W. W. Carlyle and daughter, Miss Janie, and son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Carlyle, left this week for New York where Miss Janie will enter a conservatory of music. The others of the party will remain a week or ten days.——Miss Lillian Ferguson, the photographer, who spent the Spring months here and the

SCUTARI IN STATE OF CHAOS

International Administration of Affairs in Captured Town—Declared to be a Farce—People Prefer Turkish Rule

Vienna, Sept. 13—Scutari, the Albanian town which the Montenegrins were forced by the Powers to surrender to an International Commission after its capture and occupation, is in a state of chaos, according to private letters reaching here. The administration under the International Commission, presided over by the British admiral, Sir Cecil Burney, is declared to be a farce. The police have lost their heads and do not seem to know whom to obey. Everybody gives orders and nobody pays attention to them afterwards.

The international troops are accused of stealing the merchants' wares from the Customshouse, and the Albanian owners are afraid to complain. The military are omnipotent. The Admirals' Council, the highest ruling authority, is constantly issuing proclamations. These are commonly called "wall-flowers" because they are stuck on the walls, and then forgotten even by their authors.

Many of the inhabitants declare they would rather return to the rule of the deposed Turks, as everything is so hopelessly muddled, especially the administration of justice. The chief judge of the criminal court is a French officer who knows none of the local tongues. The official translator is an Armenian who knows them all, but the version of the case which reaches the ear of the court is said to be that of the party who has found the way to the heart of the translator, through his pocket. Consequently miscarriages of justice are frequent.

A Montengrin charged with robbery and assault was fined $20 and banished from the city, and an Albanian who stole twenty apples from a garden was sent to prison for forty days. A Christian citizen who stole a revolver got off with a fine of $25, and a policeman who allowed a prisoner to escape was sent to prison for six months.

Admiral Burney has ordered that all persons playing games of hazard be arrested. When this order is carried out the French judge promptly releases them, since gambling is not recognized as a crime under the French law.

But the International Commission has brought at least one good thing into Scutari—an abundance of music. English, Italian and Austrian military bands play in the city every day, affording a welcome refreshment from the incessant discussion of politics. But the conductors of these bands seem no more able to agree among themselves than the members of the Admirals' Council. After a fierce quarrel with his English colleague, the Italian conductor was unceremoniously thrown out of the city. And so the International control finds no harmony even in music.

An amusing feature in this International Operetta is the part played by the delegates from the provisional Albanian government in Valona, who conduct themselves as great personages. They receive $25 a day ablece from their government, but nobody knows where the money actually comes from. It is shrewdly suspected that the source of supply is not far from the Foreign Office in Vienna.

Former President Taft was the orator at the Perry celebration at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, on Lake Erie, Wednesday, and spoke of the heroism of Commodore Perry, who, with a fleet built of green timber in three weeks, whipped the English in a memorable battle. A monument was dedicated, it being exactly 100 years to the day since the battle, and Taft spoke of it as a beacon of perpetual peace between the two great families of English-speaking people.

GAYNOR'S LAST INTERVIEW

Had Planned to "Blow Up Tammany" on His Return, But His Story of Corrupt Politics Will Never be Told to the World.

Mayor William Jay Gaynor, on board the Baltic, at New York, just before he sailed, had a farewell talk with his friend, James Creelman, and in the light of the tragic event of the voyage on which he was then starting, there is much in the last interview he ever gave that is interesting in connection with the mayoralty fight in New York.

"It was one of the most moving experiences of my life," said Creelman, after the death of the mayor had been announced. "I felt while I talked with the mayor that he was a dying man, and I said so to one or two intimate friends, when I returned from the ship.

"He told me frankly that one lung was then entirely out of commission, although he had the free use of his other lung. In a feeble voice, he said that he had been in an almost continuous fit of vomiting for about seven hours, and that he believed that the bullet, which had paralyzed one section of his throat, had slowly traveled down to the lung and was pressing upon some nerve there.

"Because of the political situation in New York, he begged me not to give the public any hint of his real physical condition, lest the news might depress his political friends and interfere with the progress of the campaign.

Didn't Fear Death.

"For the first time since I saw him prostrated after the attempted assassination three years ago, his usually bright gray eyes were dulled to such extent that words can hardly express it. So greatly was his face changed that I barely knew him when I saw him aboard the steamer. His lips were white. His hands and knees trembled constantly. His form was bent and he breathed with obvious difficulty.

"On the Baltic I asked him whether he believed he was in danger of death. He slowly shook his head, and said that he did not know what to think. His doctor had given him every reason to believe that his life was safe, but that he did not believe he could go on much longer if the coughing fits produced by the wounds the bullet made continued. 'I am not afraid to die,' he said, 'but I don't want to die now of all times, because I feel that the great work I have undertaken is not finished.'

"I asked him whether it was true that Mr. Murphy, the Tammany leader, had some time ago sent word to him that unless he dismissed Police Commissioner Waldo his name would not be considered for Mayor again.

Tammany Hadn't Threatened Him.

"'Yes,' he said, 'it is true. I received that message several times, and, of course, I paid no attention to it whatever. I have known for a long time that the Murphy crowd did not want to renominate me, and that they would not renominate me unless general public opinion forced them to do it. Perhaps I ought not to blame them for feeling as they did about it. I was not their kind of a man. I was not their kind of a Mayor. They were not able to get anything out of me in the way of contracts or appointments, and that is all they ever think about. They care nothing at all about the people.'

"The Mayor had a fit of trembling for a few minutes, and his face was distorted with pain.

Tried to Bribe Waldo.

"'Do you know, Creelman,' he said, 'that ——— (naming one of the most powerful of the Tammany leaders), once actually attempted to corrupt Commissioner Waldo? He got Waldo in a room, and there and then attempted to buy protection for gambling houses. Why, he even tried to buy protection for the gambling dive of Rosenthal, the scoundrel whose murder was procured by Lieutenant Becker.'

"You ought to make that public," I suggested.

Intended Exposure of Tammany.

"'I will, when I come back,' he said, in a weak whisper. 'I will tell the whole damnable story. I propose to strip the Tammany gang; but just now I must fight for physical strength to do the work. When the campaign really opens in New York, I will show the people just what Murphy and Tammany is. It is too soon to speak of these matters, but with my strength built up, I will not spare one of them, not one.'

"I asked him what he thought his chances of election were, and again he shook his head. 'I don't know,' he said, 'all I know is that I have kept faith with the people, and that I have done my work as a man and as a Mayor. The work is here to be seen in all the departments of the city government.'

"For some time the Mayor remained bent, his eyes closed, his head bowed on his breast and his hands resting loosely on his lap. Presently he opened his eyes again, and said:

"'I hope I will come back alive. I believe I will. This fight must go on.'

Sketch of His Life.

Mayor Gaynor was born on a farm near Whitestown, N. Y., in 1851. Poor, he had to sacrifice his own interests in the fight to help the family. However, he graduated from the seminary at Whitestown, taught school in Boston, and later studied law in the office of Ward Hunt in Utica. Ward was later a justice in the Supreme Court of the State.

In 1873 the future mayor went to Brooklyn and served as a newspaper reporter, and two years later entered the practice of law. From that time on ceaseless activity marked his whole career. He was in continuous political warfare. He died as he had lived, in the harness, game to the last, his "Impossible, absolutely impossible," in reply to suggestions that he should take vacations, being characteristic of his whole career. He stayed in his courts while on the bench longer hours than any other judge.

His first work was an attack on the unlicensed saloons of the Flatbush section of Brooklyn, and he came out victorious. Ten years afterward he was the head and front of the war on the McLaughlin "ring" in Brooklyn. His fight on John Y. McKane, boss of Sheepshead Bay, won national attention, and McKane died in Sing Sing.

In 1893 Gaynor became Supreme Court justice after a nomination by Republicans and independent Democrats, and was re-elected in 1907. He resigned and accepted the nomination for mayor and was elected in November, 1909. Since then he has done many things that won the approval of friends and the bitterest attacks of critics. He worked out many innovations in government, and had determined to stand for re-election this Fall, when death overtook him on the high seas—found him sitting in his chair, alone, and he died as one falls on sleep.

Vienna, Sept. 13.—Dr. Piffl, the Archbishop of Vienna, speaking before a large assembly at Linz recently, vehemently attacked the present fashions of women's dress. He said he spoke at the special request of an exalted personage, which was construed to mean that he was voicing the sentiments of the Emperor.

Present day fashions are exercising a most pernicious and ruinous influence upon the social and financial conditions of many families, he declared. He begged his hearers to reject the prevailing indecent and disgraceful fashions, which have nothing in common with Christian character and which strike at the self-respect of Christian women and girls like blows in the face.

Dr. Piffl was only recently raised to the Archbishopric. He has never been considered at all sensational, but is esteemed a tolerant man, with kindly social sympathies.

THREW AWAY AMERGRIS.

Girl Found $3,000 Worth, Didn't Know It, and Let It Slip.

(From the New York Sun.)

Sergt. James Moffit, of the Seventh police station, Providence, R. I., is lamenting the fact that his daughter, Helen, threw away at least $3,000 worth of ambergris. Miss Moffit was spending the day at Watch Hill, and while strolling along the shore, picked up a grayish substance somewhat larger than a Rugby football. Breaking off a small piece, she threw the rest back into the water, saving a little out of curiosity.

Sergt. Moffit took the sample to a chemist who analyzed it. He learned that the chunk, weighing a little over an ounce, was the finest quality of ambergris and was worth $30. The piece which Miss Moffit threw back into the ocean was worth at least $3,000, the chemist estimated.

Early frosts and excessive rainfall in the fruit regions of the eastern part of the country have militated against the apple crop, cutting down the quantity and impairing the quality, hence that fruit will be comparatively high and scarce.

Currency amounting to $71,900 was stolen from the express safe on A. C. L. train No. 89, en route from New York to Savannah, some time during the passage of the express safe between the two cities, last Wednesday-Thursday.

Summer at Montreat, returned this week and expects to locate in Lumberton and will open a first-class studio.——Mr. J. M. Moss, of the law firm of Britt & Moss, is visiting relatives at Rocky Mount. He will return next week.——Mrs. Thos. C. Johnson, who had been visiting relatives at Whiteville, has returned home.

One week ago today little Truman Parmele, son of Mrs. Nellie Parmele, swallowed a 25 cent piece of money from which he has suffered ever since, his throat being in such condition that he could not take any solid food. Yesterday he was carried to Fayetteville where it is said the money was located in one of his lungs by the use of the X-ray. It was stated that an operation would be necessary to remove the coin. A message from Fayetteville this morning is that the operation was entirely successful and the little fellow was getting on nicely.

Lucinda House, a colored woman, was brought here yesterday morning from the Wakulla section and locked up on account of her mental condition. She will be taken to Goldsboro the first of the week.

J. P. Prevatt and Willie Meares, of Wishart's township, drifted over into Howellsville township Sunday afternoon where they tanked up on moonshine, got drunk and raised rough house. When they appeared before Recorder Rowland yesterday morning they got off by paying $20 fine and costs each.

Messrs. Iredell Meares, of Wilmington, and H. F. Seawell, of Carthage, are Lumberton visitors today.

ONLY MADE MATTERS WORSE.

Captain's Words of Intended Comfort Completed Panic of Terror-Stricken Passengers.

"To try to reassure people in time of an accident sometimes causes more trouble than the accident itself," said a man who once lived on Staten Island. "At any rate, that was my experience when one of the old Staten Island ferry boats nearly turned over one day in a fierce wind. It looked as if destruction were inevitable.

"The boat had dipped until it almost stood on edge; passengers stampeded, women and children shrieked and cried in terror. Badly scared as I was, I undertook to comfort a woman who had knelt and was praying loudly for deliverance.

"'Don't be alarmed, Madam,' I said. 'We are sure to be all right. The boat will straighten up in a few minutes. It has been running for fifty years, and it is not likely to go down now.'

"My comforting words had a most unexpected effect.

"'Oh,' wailed the woman, 'if the boat has been running for fifty years it must be so old and rotten that it can't possibly stand this strain. We're done for.'

"And with that she jumped overboard.

"Fortunately, she was fished out by the crew, but she sustained a severe shock. The boat, of course, weathered the storm, and that woman was the only person on board who was injured."

THINNING IN MEDICAL RANKS

Fewer College Men Take Up the Study of Medicine, According to the Statistics.

An official in one of Philadelphia's big medical colleges said to me, writes a Philadelphia Public Ledger reporter: "The number of physicians grows less each year. There is already a noticeable lack of them in some rural districts.

"It is true also that the number of medical students in our Philadelphia colleges, as well as in the medical colleges in other parts of the United States, is smaller now than it was formerly. In 1904 there were 29,000 medical students in the country, but now there are only 18,000."

"What is the reason for this decline?" I asked the college professor.

"Stiffer courses of study," he replied. He seemed to think that the country could well afford to get on with fewer doctors, provided it had better ones. Each year sees a larger number of doctors attached permanently to hospitals. I asked this authority what he thought the average income is of Pennsylvania doctors, and he guessed $1,500.

I learn from an authoritative source that the average salary of all Methodist ministers in the Philadelphia district, which includes towns adjacent, is $1,172 a year.

Pampered Lapdogs.

The New York papers report that a wealthy woman well known in society circles went to one of the finest hotels in New York and engaged a suite of four rooms and three baths for three months at $50 a day. There was a living room, a bedroom, and a bath for herself, a room and a bath for the maids, and a bedroom and bath for her "babies," as she called her three dogs, two Japanese and one a Pekingese spaniel.

Rising from their satin-lined baskets in the morning, the dogs are bathed with scented water in the big white tub. After that comes breakfast with milk and toast. At luncheon the "babies" are served with lamb chops and creamed potatoes. Dinner consists of a bit of chicken, mashed potatoes, and a dessert of ice-cream or some creamy confection.

The fare of the dogs is fifty shillings a day, or more than $45,000 a year.—London Tit-Bits.

An Ostrich As a Pony.

None of the recent additions to the Zoological Gardens has proved so popular as "Barbara," the domesticated ostrich which is now allowed to draw a little carriage, loaded with happy children, around the gardens in the afternoon.

Barbara, who is at present bereft of her plumes, has to be kept in the sanatorium, and is allowed out only during fine, warm weather. She is fed twice a day on a mash of bread, bran and oats, with chopped bones and cabbage as a second course. The charge for riding in Barbara's carriage once around a large flower bed is twopence.—London Mail.

Very Poor Sight.

Senator Shively was discussing a tariff clause.

"The opponents of this clause are like young Smithers," he said, "young Smithers, who married the poor and elderly and hideous Miss Hughes.

"Two ladies were discussing this match. The first said:

"'How on earth did Smithers come to marry her?'

"The other lady, smiling delicately, answered:

"'You can see for yourself that he wears blue glasses.'"

Well Amended.

Governor Sulzer, apropos of a peculiarly ignoble move in a political conflict, said in Albany:

"Whether this move wins the day or not, I, for one, can't countenance it."

The governor brushed back his long, thick forelock and added:

"The end justifies only the mean."

SEEMINGLY KNEW ITS VALUE

Moose Refused to Come Within Range of Hunter's Rifle Until the "Auto" Had Been Raised.

A parsimonious sportsman, shooting over some wild lands in Nova Scotia, being desirous to bring down a moose, started out to engage a guide and moose caller. The usual pay of a Nova Scotia guide is two dollars a day; but the sportsman in question was too mean to pay the regular rates, and finding a skillful guide, one Louis the Indian, temporarily out of a job, after much wrangling managed to jam him down to one dollar a day, and the two started out into the woods. All the conditions were favorable to finding a moose, but, although each day before sunrise Louis the Indian took his birchbark cone, and, placing it to his lips, whinned and grunted in imitation of a moose, there was no answering call, no antlered giant of the forest stalked into view. After twenty-odd days of this sort of effort without a result, the sportsman grew both impatient and suspicious, and, calling the guide to his tent, he began to upbraid him.

"Louis," he said, "I don't understand this kind of business. Here we are in the best moose country in Nova Scotia. You are considered one of the best callers in the province. Every day you go out and call and call, yet no moose comes. What does it mean?"

The wily Indian took his pipe out of his mouth for a moment and smiled a smile of infinite cunning. "Me don't know what matter," he said. "Maybe moose no like dollar call."

The very next day, our sportsman having raised the ante to two dollars, a moose "came to the call"—the right call this time. Louis was a sly Indian.—Judge.

NOW HAS PETRIFIED APPLE.

Colorado Man Threw Fruit Into Furnace and the Heat Had Peculiar Effect.

By some process that no one he has consulted has been able to explain, an apple has undergone petrification in the furnace at the home of C. Schrades of Denver, Colo., who has offered the curiosity to the state museum.

The apple, a russet, weighed about five ounces three weeks ago. It was thrown into the Schrades furnace, and now weighs fourteen ounces. Its color and shape were not affected by the heat, and it appears at a glance to be a perfect apple, except that there is a hole where the stem was; but it is so hard that the point of a knife blade cannot be driven into it.

Tactful Dancer.

Mme. Pavlowa had to pass through something of an ordeal during her recent visit to Russia. After a performance at St. Petersburg she was called to the imperial box and the czar asked her why she had ceased to live in Russia. But the dancer was equal to the occasion. She entered into an animated description of the beauties of her new London home, and especially of her pet swans, pigeons, and parrots, who could hardly be expected to enjoy the delights of travel and who even at that moment were pining for the return of their mistress. The czar listened with amusement and made a virtue of necessity when he gave his permission to the great dancer to live where and how she pleased so long as she remembered that her own people were second to none in appreciation of her art.

New Use for Ozone.

Ozone generators have been found to be of great value in refrigerating plants, and several of the large establishments of Europe have been thus equipped. In the cold-storage rooms attached to slaughter houses the temperature of the air is liable to be raised to a serious extent when the doors are left open for any reason; for instance, when meat is being put in or taken out. The micro-organisms of putrefaction immediately become active under such circumstances, and the keeping quality of the meat is diminished. Now it is well known that ozone is a powerful germicide. If the air of the cold-storage room is ozonized, its temperature may be raised without injury to the contents.

Novelist's Japanese Prints.

It is not often that the British museum is enriched by so valuable an addition as that of Arthur Morrison's collection of Japanese prints. It is one of the very finest collections of its kind extant.

Arthur Morrison, who is the writer of Tales of Mean Streets, and other remarkable works of fiction, is the greatest living English authority on Japanese art, on which he has written much. His interest in the subject is due to an accident. Some 20 years ago he las attracted by a print in a shop window and incontinently bought it. That was the beginning of his activities as a collector and connoisseur.

Minister's Patience Gone.

Have you seen anything of that motor church they are sending around the country, Babbles?" asked Winkles.

"Yes," said Babbles. "Saw it this morning stuck in a ditch down by the golf links. When it left the minister was sitting on a fence rail watching a lot of unregenerate sinners trying to pull it out, and nodding his approval of the language they used in doing it, too."—Harper's Weekly.

An explosion on board the U. S. torpedo boat Craven at sea Wednesday killed one and injured five sailors. The accident happened off the coast of South Carolina.

When It Comes to Using

ICE

without doubt offers in all respects the best Ice to be had in this market.

The water used is drawn from deep wells and is clear, pure and cold; it is distilled and double filtered, then reboiled making it absolutely pure.

It is then frozen at a very low temperature making Ice of the highest sanitary quality.

The best authorities on analytical chemistry prove our claim that no purer Ice than ours can be made.

Our Ice cuts clear and sure thus avoiding the waste in using so noticeable in other makes of Ice; therefore, careful and discriminating consumers will make no mistake in calling for our Ice on the grounds of purity, economy and general satisfaction.

Our delivery service is of the highest efficiency, combining certainty with celerity—early and late, and all the time on the job.

Our increasing sales prove in the most conclusive manner that we are serving the public with the real stuff.

Of General Interest

A gasoline explosion in Newburyport, Mass., Tuesday caused the death of two people and the destruction of 25 buildings, worth $100,000.

Secretary of State William J. Bryan and wife have sued Chief of Police Roach of Jacksonville, Fla., for having kept a diamond ring of Mrs. Bryan for a year after it was identified as Mrs. Bryan's property.

Because of the killing of a Japanese minister in China and of several other outrages against Japs, the Japanese people are loudly demanding war with China. China, on the other, torn by rebellion, has promised to investigate, to punish and make full reparation.

A court martial has been ordered conducted for Captain H. B. West, commanding the revenue cutter Pamlico, on charge of neglect of duty, violation of regulations and conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman. The court will sit in Baltimore the 23rd.

One of the most exciting baseball battles of the season has been the race between Mobile and Atlanta, the latter winning by a half game. They were nip and tuck and had Mobile defeated New Orleans in the last game o fthe season, she would have won the pennant—but she got beat.

Lee Archer, the negro who criminally assaulted Miss Cora Whitehurst, of Bayside, Princess Anne county, Virginia, was sentenced to death Monday at Norfolk. His crime was committed September 2nd, and in one week he had been arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced—instead of being lynched.

James Chapman, a Bristol, Tenn.-Va., man, was given five years in prison Tuesday for bigamy. He married Ellen Gobble in February at which and they declare that the election J. C. Elliott, also in jail at Bristol, is believed to have three or four wives, mostly girls. His last victim was a 13-year-old girl.

The election of a Republican to Congress in a Maine district by only 500 majority, when the normal majority is 8,000, is held by the Democrats to mean a Democratic victory, virtually, and they declare that the election of the Republican means nothing as a forecaster of the trend of the elections next year and three years hence.

Before Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader in England, gets into the United States on her trip to this country, she will have to show the immigration authorities that she is not an undesirable alien. Her activities in England made the officials thank that perhaps she wasn't a good person to admit into this peaceful country.

Samuel Hitchcock blew into South Norwalk, Conn., Monday and going to the jewelry shop of Legrand Jackson, told him he borrowed 50 years ago, a $5 bill from Jackson's brother, and wished to pay him the $5 with accrued interest for 50 years. The brother was dead, so Jackson took the money, which the stranger said he had wanted to pay so bad that he came all the way from out West to pay it.

William Travers Jerome, who went to Canada to aid in re-taking Thaw in the legal battle which has followed that specimen's escape from the Matteawan asylum, and who was indicted for gambling because to while away the time one day he and some American newspaper men played draw poker for a penny an ante, was released and discharged Monday by a judge who heard the case, and who apologized for the arrest and indictment.

In a speech before a health gathering in Colorado Springs, attended by over 300 physicians, Carl L. Alsburg, government chemist, declared that the Federal health laws could not reach State conditions and that State officials were so inactive that out of the 90,000,000 people of this country, 70,000,000 have no adequate, efficient and systematic inspection of foods, and hence are subject to the dangers of typhoid, consumption, intestinal diseases and infantile ailments.

A negro girl, 10 years old, at Muskogee, Okla., has an income of $112,000 a year and the income gets bigger all the time. She happens to be the descendant of a Creek freedman, and in her allotment of Indian lands, it so fell out that she got 160 acres on which there is today the biggest oil well in the mid-continent field. It is paying $2,500 a day and she gets one-eighth royalty. Other wells are being bored, which will increase her income. Her name is Sarah Rector.

The Democrats finally passed their tariff bill in the Senate Tuesday afternoon. The vote was 44 to 37. The Senate bill lowers the duties to an average of 26 per cent. which is a reduction of an average of 28 per cent. from existing duties and four per cent from the average which the House fixed. The bill now goes to conference and will be law in two weeks. Senators LaFollette and Poindexter, Progressive Republicans, after offering in vain many amendments, voted for the bill as a whole and were roundly cheered.

Eleven railroads wired Congress Tuesday to investigate the cause of wrecks before any legislation was undertaken to prevent wrecks. They declared that 92 per cent of the people killed by railroads were trespassers and that out of 49 collision accidents investigated, 48 were caused by the negligence of employes. Steel cars they said, do not prevent accidents, only mitigate the effects of them; and if all the railroads were forced to provide steel cars at once, it would cost them $633,000,000. They are providing them as fast as possible.

Following President Wilson's advice to all Americans to leave Mexico, a good many Americans who couldn't well afford to pay the passage, have been carried free by the government, but they were not given first-class passage on steamers. And many, of course, who had money, wanted to come away at the public expense and demanded first-class accommodations to boot. Failing to get them, they raised a howl, and President Huerta thereupon offered to pay their way, which several of them allowed him to do.

The South African government will erect a large mill to encourage the cultivation of sugar cane in Zululand.

Brief News Stories of The Carolinas

Davie county is building a $15,000 county home.

Newbern is organizing a company to make overalls. Local capitalists are interested.

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, is writing a biography of President Wilson and it is said he has nearly finished the job.

J. L. Jackson expects two and a half to three bales of cotton to the acre on four acres planted in King Big Boll, in Edgefield county, S. C.

There are over 9,000 automobiles in North Carolina and at the rate of purchase, the 10,000 mark will be passed this year. The cost of the lot is estimated at from six to eight million dollars.

Rev. J. W. Little, at a recent baptising at which 10 candidates received the rite at Peachland, stated that during his ministry he had baptized 5,006 people, and had married several hundred couples.

W. C. Dowd was elected a member of the House from Mecklenburg county Tuesday, at a special election; and F. A. Woodard was elected from Wilson county, both elections being held to fill vacancies.

Crops in Anderson county, S. C., like they are almost everywhere, are good, with this exception in Anderson's case—they are the best ever known in that county, no former year having been so prolific.

The price of cotton bagging and ties is higher this year than in many years. Complaint is made at Mayesville, S. C., that ginners are charging $1.40 a bale for new bagging and ties and $1 for second-hand stuff.

T. B. Curry, of Buncombe county, was shot and killed by Deputy Sheriff H. B. Barnes Monday when Curry, who had killed George Kuykendall with a razor, advanced with the same weapon on the official sent to arrest him.

Clarence J. Owens, of South Carolina, states that he is going to establish a State experiment farm on his plantation of 360 acres near Dunbarton, in Barnwell county. Owens is a director in the Southern Commercial Congress.

Fire at Lumberton Monday night destroyed the residence of Lide Rogers, burning most all the contents of the house, which was also burned. It was the property of R. S. Bond, of Rowland. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A Birmingham iron company is investigating a field of iron ore in Guilford county that was worked many years ago, and if the stuff pans out, will mine it and ship it to Birmingham to be used in making iron and fluxing steel.

Because he wouldn't pay a city tax of $100 on wholesale livestock dealers, J. L. King of Greensboro was fined $50 in Kinston last week, and appealed. He had sold a car load of horses at auction and they struck him for the tax, which he wouldn't pay.

Senator Simmons, as head of the Democratic forces in the Senate, is chairman of the Senate conferees on the tariff and with the House committee is now engaged in adjusting the Senate bill to the one passed by the House. He states that it will not take more than 10 days.

The total sales of tobacco in South Carolina during July and August amounted to nearly 28,000,000 pounds, selling for nearly $3,000,000. This was an increase over last year of over six and a half million pounds and over a million and a half dollars.

Since the storm on the northeast coast of the State, fish have been scarce in the markets of that section, both because they have not been frequenting the coast as before the storm and because the fishermen lost all their equipment for catching them.

Peter Carter, aged 20 years, a Duplin county boy, was arrested and jailed in Kinston Monday on charge of stealing a tobacco sale bill and cashing it, the sum being $117. He was caught with the money and the bill but denied that he took it.

Covering her eyes so she could't see the onrushing train, Carrie Belt, of Greensboro, a negro woman of some properity, leaped from a bank directly in front of the engine and was instantly killed. She owned her home and had money and it is not known why she wanted to commit suicide.

Chairman Harry Walters, of the Coast Line, testified Monday before the Corporation Commission as to the sale and division of the C. F. & Y. V. Railroad between the A. C. L. and Southern. The State is investigating with a view of declaring the sale void and making the road independent again. The hearing will be resumed September 22nd.

Wednesday the colored people of Cumberland county will hold a big educational rally in Fayetteville. State Superintendent Joyner and Maj. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture, will speak. The colored people school children of Cumberland county gave more for the Aycock monument than the white and colored children combined of any other county in the State.

Manly McDowell, of Burke; Sam L. Rogers, of Franklin, and Chas. A. Webb, State Democratic chairman, of Asheville, are all working for the appointment as marshal in the Western district; and as Senator Overman must make a recommendation, and as he is standing for renomination, things are in pretty tight way, for all three candidates are party leaders and good men.

Cumberland county last Tuesday voted for stock law by over 100 majority. The vote everywhere was light. Hereafter instead of fencing their crops farmers will fence their cattle, and the government will now fight the fever tick until it is eradicated. When the special session of the Legislature convenes, an effort will be made to get a State-wide stock law passed.

At the Central fair at Greensboro in October a booth will be operated to demonstrate in many ways the effect of whiskey on men and women and their children, mentally and physically. It will be shown how people who drink do sorry work, while those who do not, do much better work; the mortality of abstainers and drinkers and that of their offspring, will also be shown, etc.

The executive committee of the North Carolina Farmers' Union Tuesday signed contracts in Charlotte with fertilizer companies for 40,000 tons of fertilizers to be distributed to members of the Union at special prices. It is estimated that 50,000 tons will be used by Union farmers this Fall. Under these contracts the fertilizer is distributed to local Unions in car lots as needed.

As details of the storm of September 3rd become fuller, it is seen that the reports of the damage instead of being exaggerated were too low in their estimates. Millions of property, boats and docks, warehouses and mills were destroyed. Several ships were blown ashore, one a big tramp steamer at Ocracoke Island, being lifted clear up on the beach, beyond the normal water line.

As a result of the storm in Newbern, the county bridge was lost, and now the commissioners are planning a steel structure wide enough for railroad. As the A. C. L. has been wanting to enter Pamlico county but hesitated on account of the enormous expense of a bridge over the river, it is possible that the railroad will negotiate with the county in the bridge matter, and cross the river on the same bridge as the public road.

The estate of Clay Grubb, the noted whiskey dealer who was killed by his wife in Davidson county when he attacked her while he was drunk, will hardly pay its indebtedness, it is said. A few days before his death Grubb told a Lexington lawyer he was worth $500,000 and owed $200,000. They have found $308,000 of debts and more to come, and say his estate will not sell for over $340,000. His Salisbury skyscraper which cost $200,000 may not bring over $160,000.

At Durham the postmaster is a hold-over Republican. His assistant recently resigned. He has two men who entered the postoffice service the same day, one a Democrat and one a Republican, who are qualified under civil service for the place of assistant postmaster. Naturally he has recommended the Republican. The department usually appoints the postmaster's choice, but will it do so now? It is a pretty fine point and will be watched with interest.

Eleven families living in a radius of four miles of Asbury, Stokes county, N. C., have a total of 169 children, an average of 15 4-11. This remarkable list is as follows: Mrs. James Anderson, mother of 13; Mrs. Jesse Hall, 16; Mrs. Geo. Rogers, 14; Mrs. Thompson Rogers, 14; Mrs. John Goins, 14; Mrs. B. F. Hatcher, 13; Mrs. W. J. Cook, 12; Mrs. Buck Martin, 16; Mrs. Bud Palmer 14; Mrs. Frank Craddock, 16, and last and not least, Mrs. Henry Wilson, 27.

M. L. Shipman, of Raleigh, was in Washington during the week and told Senators Simmons and Overman that there was general complaint because of the manner in which the civil service examinations had been conducted for deputy collectors, saying the examinations were absurdly drawn for such officials. A college graduate fell down on the requirements for men to beat the bushes to locate stills. Overman promised to try to get deputy collectors from under civil service.

The Corporation Commission has ordered the Commissioners of Washington county to put their assessment back where it was fixed in 1911, when they reduced what the assessor had made it, because it was higher than the valuations in surrounding counties. The commission says that instead of reducing it, values in surrounding counties should have been raised. The 1912 and 1913 tax must be paid on the 1911 basis. The commissioners had no right to reduce the assessment.

There was another rate conference at Raleigh Wednesday when President Tate and his 10 advisors, of the Just Freight Rates Association, met with Governor Craig and the Council of State, and discussed the situation. Mr. J. Allan Taylor, of Wilmington, member from this county, argued for making the port a rate basing point, declaring there could never be a settlement that did not take into consideration this port and water rates. He argued for taking this matter to the Inter-State Commerce Commission. There was growing sentiment for an independent steamer line between Wilmington and Northern ports.

Eight negro convicts were found smothered to death in the "dark" cell of the Virginia State farm camp No. 3, at Harlem, Va., Monday and three more were nearly dead when found, because of breathing poisoned air all night long. Convicts have been put into this dark hole for discipline since whipping was forbidden by law. It is ventilated by 10 holes an inch in diameter, and the survivors say they managed to live by getting to these holes and breathing through them. The superintendent has been indicted for negligent homicide.

The Week Locally

R. M. Padrick, merchant at Fourth and Church streets, made an assignment to W. B. Walton Tuesday.

The funeral of Mr. Matt J. Heyer was held Monday from St. James' Episcopal church and interment was in Oakdale.

The Chamber of Commerce Thursday endorsed State-wide stock law, or a law covering as much of the State as possible.

As damage for removal of the piazza which extended onto the sidewalk on Dock street, Council on Wednesday granted Mr. S. M. Boatwright $150.

George W. Davis and helpers landed 12,000 pounds of mullet off Wrightsville Beach Tuesday and the fish were brought to the city and prepared for market.

Henry Singleton, a negro youth, charged with attempted criminal assault on a young white girl, was tried behind closed doors in Superior Court Tuesday and found guilty of simple assault.

Twenty-nine men, white and colored, submitted to a charge of gambling in the Cottle drug store in the Recorder's court Tuesday and paid the costs. They had "shot crops" and engaged in other forms of gambling.

The first cotton steamer to arrive at the port for cargo of cotton was the King Edgar, which reported Sunday at Alex. Sprunt & Son's. The vessel came direct from Androssen, Scotland, and is a British steamer of 2,433 tons, Capt. Brooks.

People in touch with conditions say that there are more families in the city than ever which have been deserted by husbands and fathers and left to shift for themselves or to be cared for by the community, and the number is said to be constantly growing.

The explosion of an oil stove Tuesday evening in the store of H. H. Woebse, corner Seventh and Nixon streets, burned the stock of goods and gutted the building, which belonged to George Schnibben, who carried some insurance. There was $400 insurance on the stock.

Albert Highsmith, colored, who shot and killed his landlord, Julius Sumter, several months ago when Sumter dunned him for board, was found guilty in Superior Court last week of murder in the second degree and given the maximum penalty of 30 years in prison by Judge Rountree.

A new train on the A. C. L. will be put on tomorrow, it being an extension of Nos. 57 and 58 from Chadbourn to Florence. It will be daily except Sunday, leaving Florence at 5:45 A. M. Chadbourn at 7:53 A. M., and arriving here at 9:45. Returning it will leave Wilmington at 7 P. M., Chadbourn at 8:48 P. M., arriving at Florence at 11 P. M.

The bond of $300 forfeited by Jake James, ex-superintendent of the chain gang, has been paid by his bondsman, Mr. R. A. Burnett, who was made safe by relatives of James. James, while superintendent, got drunk one Sunday with a negro "trusty", and when the "trusty" refused to go back to camp, James shot him through the leg.

At a meeting of Council Wednesday it was ordered that an experimental deep well be driven near the water station, as a preliminary to arranging a system of deep wells as a means of securing water supply. The wells now in use are said to furnish the best water available and it is the dream of Councilman Wood to change from the river to deep wells in order to get a pure supply of water.

The Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association will meet in Jacksonville, Fla., in November and it is expected that Wilmington and North Carolina will have the largest representation in the history of the association. The proposition of a 35-foot channel from Wilmington to the Cape Fear bar will be taken up. It is being discussed with the government now. Mr. Meares Harriss of this city, is secretary of the State association.

The annual meeting of the stockholders in the Atlantic Trust & Banking Co., was held Wednesday. All old officers were re-elected and the president's report showed net earnings of 24 per cent. The individual deposits amount to over $738,000 now. The bank is in its handsome new home, the "skyscraper", corner Front and Market, which has cost $117,175, and is practically filled with tenants in the offices of the upper floors.

The bond of $200 of Douglass Ewell, colored, charged with retailing, was declared forfeited by the court Monday, and the bondsman, Mr. L. J. Carter, required to pay, while a capias was issued for Ewell. Mr. Carter asked the indulgence of the court on the ground that he had located the negro and would produce him in court, but Solicitor Lyon pointed out that Mr. Carter had been made safe and would lose nothing, so the bond was declared forfeited.

J. B. Neeley, restaurant keeper indicted for violating the prohibition law in that he sold "No Tax", an alleged non-alcoholic beverage, but which the State contended contained a small per cent of alcohol, gave notice in court Monday that he would not appeal, but submit to the fine of $25 and costs imposed in July. He was fined $500 by the Recorder for selling the "No Tax". He has shipped all the stuff back to Alexandria, Va., where it was made.

Benj. J. Cottle, a young druggist of the city, who had previously been in the courts on charge of violating the prohibition law, and who entered a submission in a new case, was sentenced to 12 months on the roads by Judge Rountree Thursday. Cottle is said by the officers to have been warned that he was getting on dangerous ground, but he seems to have learned nothing from his experiences. The court confessed that the case had troubled him, and in view of all the circumstances he had decided to impose the minimum sentence. Cottle offered to leave the State forever if allowed to pay up and go, but the court declined. Cottle was once awarded a Carnegie medal for heroism and received the usual cash reward for bravery.

Grandma's Telephone Visits

GRANDMA SMITH is a sprightly old lady who likes to keep in touch with things. In the next town lives another dear old lady who was Grandma's schoolmate, and of whom she is very fond. It is impossible for the two old ladies to do much visiting, but every day they call each other up on the telephone and have the most delightful chats.

No one gets more comfort and pleasure out of the family telephnoe than Grandma.

The Ten Commandments—Part II.

(The Story.)

It is at once recognized that the principles irradiated in this singular manner are basal. They are fundamental to organized society. A commonwealth can not exist without them. They are essential to social order. In proportion to the obedience given them will be the stability of the State. In this connection the heinousness of crime is apparent. Breaking the commandments does not merely injure the immediate parties; it tends to disintegrate and subvert the whole social order. The sentimental condoning of crime and unwarrantable use of executive clemency are, therefore, in themselves harmful to the common weal. The immediate parties can not be divorced from the larger relation, which their deeds maintain. The reception and ratification of this unique and comprehensive ethical code was under circumstances exceedingly appropriate. The physical environment could not have been more significant. It seemed meet and right that the unyielding law should come from the gray and thunder-smitten pile of Sinai. Time was apt, too—the genesis of a nation. The specific ceremony on the occasion was brief, but telling. Moses built a national altar at the foot of the mount, and set up twelve pillars about it, one for each of the tribes of which the nation was composed. He sprinkled half of the blood of the victim upon the altar. It was an object-lesson, as if to say that the life (blood signifying life) of Jehovah himself was staked upon his fidelity in awarding the rewards and punishments defined by the law. Then Moses read from a parchment scroll a transcript of the Decalogue which he had made from the tables of stone. When he had finished, the people in one voice responded, solemnly and earnestly, as the occasion, the environment, and the words themselves would inspire them to do: "All that the Lord hath said will we do, and be obedient." Then Moses took the other half of the blood of the victim and sprinkled it upon the people, in sign that they pledged their lives to obedience to the law of God as read in their hearing that day. And this speaking national ritual closed with Moses solemnly saying: "Behold the blood of the covenant which the Lord hath made with you concerning all these words." * * * Obedience to the law is exceedingly broad. As a Divine teacher he [illegible] this epitome of the [illegible] condenses and exhausts? Yes, but certainly seem that ab[illegible]ne was im[illegible]r soul of [illegible] reduc[illegible] Love [illegible] deed arises. At the same time he helps us by his divine perspicuity to an understanding of the principles of the law, an appreciation of their worth and truth, and admiration and love of them, so that we find ourselves in tune with them. The Decalogue becomes the very vocabulary of our soul's desires.

The Teacher's Lantern.

Fifth commandment: The whole of what has been called "relative duties" is here indicated by one particular phase of them; namely, the family. This relation is first in point of time and importance, as being the source of all other relations. This has been called the first commandment with promise. This is only the enunciation of a natural law. Dutiful children are usually free from the vices which tend to shorten life. Sixth commandment: The Revised Version is evidently a preferable reading: "Thou shalt do no murder." Never in the history of the race has this commandment held such universal sway. The number of capital crimes of which the law takes cognizance is reduced to a minimum. The causes of war recognized by the international code have also been reduced to a minimum. Risk to life of employee has also been greatly diminished. Murder is yet committed by ignoring the demand for sanitation of tenements. And Jacob Riis has said that it is just as bad to kill a man with a house as to kill him with an ax. * * * Seventh commandment: Jesus lifts adultery from its literal sense to its larger scope, which forbids all impurity of every description, whether in deed or in thought. No vice writes the epitaph of an individual, a race, or a nation so quickly as impurity. Neither family nor State can abide before it. * * * Eighth commandment: Property is recognized as a Divine institution. It is the natural reward of industry. The thief does more than injure the party from whom he steals. He helps undermine the social order itself. This commandment also is exceeding broad. Many operations now condoned in the business world could not stand a moment in the white ligh; of the Divine word, "Thou shalt not steal." * * * Ninth commandment: This word does not refer exclusively to perjured testimony in a court of justice. There is a larger court. It is public opinion. Before this assize it is possible for men to do their fellows great injustice. * * * Tenth commandment: This is an immeasurable advance upon any code of antiquity. It practically anticipates Jesus' carrying of the law into the "inward part." It does not deal with the overt act, but goes back to the external deed, to the disposition of the mind.

The Young People's Devotional Service
September 14, 1913. John 1:1-14.
(Favorite Verses (IV) in the Gospel)

It is sometimes asked, "Why Four Gospels?" One answer might be that the four present such an inner agreement in their representations of Jesus' person and work as to give us an image of the Master marked by completeness and harmony. That justifies the four Gospels. The texts from each which picture Jesus as the ideal of self-oblivious service for others, have always been the world's favorite texts.

REMEMBERING THE OYSTER.

Plea for An "Oyster Day" and a Tribute to His Admirable Qualities.

(From the Washington Post.)

Nature not only has a way of caring for all things, but she also sees to it that there is instilled in the heart of some one a knowledge of the fact. By this means the humblest as well as the greatest will ever have their advocates.

At a season when reform is at its height, when earnest scrutinizers of past records are planning halls of fame for the worthy departed, and the "whoop 'em up" fellows are shouting lustily for the living leaders, there issues from an unknown source a still small voice. How it got started, no one knows for certain. But the idea has been bruited abroad, and has already secured a foothold. This is nothing less than to set aside a day—for some indefinite reason October 20th has been suggested—on which to remember the oyster. That day is to be known as "Oyster Day," and at its annual return every one is to eat the "succulent bivalve"—a term that, like the oyster itself, never loses its right epicurean tang.

Why should not the oyster have his—or her—day? Has not it, or he, or she a more than ordinary list of virtues? Long recognized as the little "William the Silent" of the deep, the oyster beats the Dutch as a keeper of his own counsel. Essentially a family man, he is seldom known to wander from his own fireside, thus setting a good example to Pittsburgh millionaires, American girls in search of a title, and foreign noblemen on a still hunt for wealth through marriage. Panned and roasted at every turn, he merely yields up the milk of oyster kindness, and returns good for evil. Under the fires of persecution, he responds with a glad smile that ends abruptly at the medulla oblongata, and then only for the simple reason that it can extend no further. He hugs calamity to his manly breast, and by means of a rare alchemy turns the pebble of misfortune into the pearl of opportunity. His optimism balks at nothing, but takes everything as it comes, from sewage to seaweed and zinc to zoospores.

If a Flag day and a Tree day and a Labor day, by all means let us have an Oyster Day, on which to welcome the luscious with exceeding great joy, invite him into our midst, and wish him may happy returns. But let us make it September 10th at the latest—October 20th is too long to wait.

..By the Wayside..

Sometime ago negro porter who had been with the Atlantic Coast Line general offices here, died. One of the officials thereupon called in another old colored servitor and told him he could take the dead man's locker and assume the duty of accompanying the cashier to the bank daily, to carry the packages of money. He did so, and in a short time he sickened and died. Then a third negro, who likewise had been with the Coast Line many years, was called in and informed that he should take the selfsame locker and tote the money bags to the bank. "Who? Me?" he asked, pop-eyed. "Yes, you," he was told. "Ain't dat de locker whut So-and-So had?" he asked, "Yes," he was answered. "En didn't So-and-So have dat same locker?" he continued. "Yes," it was replied. "Boss," the negro continued, earnestly, "Ise been wid de Coas' Line er long time en I likes mer job, but ef I has to take dat locker en do de wuck er dem fellers, 'scuse me! You'll have to git ernuther nigger!"

"Which shows," said a gentleman, "how deeply ingrained superstition is in the African nature."

"Huh!" exclaimed a white man. "I don't blame him; I wouldn't take that job myself!"

You have read or heard of men, in wrath and despair at being whipped out by elemental forces, or overcome by circumstances over which they had no control, shaking their clenched fists in the face of the whole universe and expressing themselves bitterly, profanely and blasphemously; and doubtless you have shuddered and wondered how men could so far forget themselves as to do that. If you want to know how one can get into that frame of mind, go out on the pier at the Seashore Hotel at Wrightsville Beach, when a northeast wind is blowing so hard that your ears hum like taut wires and every muscle aches from the strain of it and fish for two solid hours without getting a bite while people all around, particularly a couple of most exasperating women, are yanking 'em about as fast as they make a cast. If you don't feel like doubling your puny fists at the bounding billows and the northeast gale, you haven't got the makings of a man in you.

A four-year-old scion of one of the well known families of the city, early in his career, was given a little savings bank and iron-clad instructions were issued to him to save every penny that came into his fist. He seems to have obeyed orders pretty well, chafing, no doubt, as all normal youngsters do, because often he had visions of all-day-suckers and things that brownie would buy, when he slipped the coin into his bank. According to his notion, however, the command laid upon him to save, covered pennies only, and did not extend to white coins of nickle or of silver, and down at the beach one day recently when his mother gave him a penny, he screwed up his face in sour protest and said:

"Aw, mother, give me a nickle. I don't want no penny."

"Why—why don't you want a penny?" he was asked, in surprise.

"Because I've got to save every damn one of them!" he replied, to the consternation of his mother and everybody else; and it might be added, to the hilarious consternation of several.

He was a tall, swaggering negro, fresh from a railroad construction camp, with a bunch of money. His head was shaved clean of kinks and the knobs on his onery skull stood out in bas relief. His derby's rim rested over against one small ear which was flattened against his head as if it were pinned. His coat collar was turned up slightly right in the middle of it and his wide-hemmed pants wrinkled around his heels to the ground. His celluloid collar glistened and his flowing red tie lay over his shoulder. On each side of him were two city negroes, shifty-eyed. Plainly they were showing the visitor the sights, supplying something to drink the while, and waiting for the chance to "skin" their new friend. The trio passed a policeman and the railroader muttered an oath under his breath. "Better not let one er dem heah you, dey'll kick you," advised one of the guides. "Huh!" snorted the visitor, "whar I come fum we kicks each udder." And in the wee sma' hours a disconsolate figure was weaving back and forth on the edge of a corner, saying to itself, "Ain't gut nary red cent lef'—busted! How's I gwiner git back to dem shanty kyars?"

Two delegates at the annual conference of the British alliance of dancing masters gave demonstrations of the "tango" and the "peacock glide" and the congress was thrown into ecstacies, declaring that the evolutions were "graceful, elevating and free from vulgarity."

A PARALLEL CASE.

How a Student at Old Trinity College Came Back at the Professor.

It was at old Trinity, in Randolph county, N. C., some years ago. The class in civil engineering was progressing with a drag that was not pleasing to the old professor, who was inclined to be sarcastic, and throw out a good many remarks to the chagrin of the boys. Finally, he met his match in a quick-witted youth, who had been criticised by the professor, along with the rest. This boy's lesson was not perfect by any means, and the professor said to him: "When George Washington was your age he was a surveyor."

The boy came back at the professor with apologies for speaking, "And when George Washington was your age he was President of the United States."—September National Monthly.
